San Joaquin Cotton Pickers Deny Strike Called Off

FEDERAL AID IS REFUSED HUNGRY MEN

Immediate Withdrawal of Armed Forces in Strike Area is One Condition
AVERAGE $9 WEEKLY

Statistics Reveal Average Picking Capacity of Laborers 200 Lbs. Daily

(LATE BULLETIN)
FRESNO, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Spurred on by their asserted Communist leaders, hungry San Joaquin valley cotton pickers stood firm today in demands for recognition of their union.
Unless the union—the Cannery and Agricultural Workers' Industrial union—is recognized, they will not return to the fields to pick cotton, they insisted through their leaders.

Many of them had not eaten since yesterday. They were refused federal relief on their refusal to return to work.
Cotton growers, harassed, they claimed, by the state and federal governments into granting a wage increase of 15 cents a hundredweight, refused as flatly to recognize the union.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 27.—(UP)—Frank C. MacDonald, state labor commissioner, telegraphed the governor's office today that the cotton pickers' strike has been "declared off" by the central strike committee.

His report outlined the settlement terms as agreed upon by a majority of strike locals, including a wage of 75 cents per hundredweight of cotton picked; immediate withdrawal of armed forces from the strike area; hiring of cotton pickers free of charge from locals of the Cannery and Agricultural Workers' Industrial Union; continuance of the fight to free "comrades who are rotting in jail" because of their militancy in the interest of the strike.

Strikers' Statement
A statement from the central strike committee said:
"Today brings to a close the third week of the strike. During this period every form of intimidation and terror has been employed."

Claim Pickers Will Average $9 Weekly
(Editor's note—The following story on earnings of cotton pickers results from a statement made editorially last night in The Register which was questioned in some quarters. It confirms the statements made in the editorial in question.)

FRESNO, Calif., Oct. 27.—(UP)—Cotton pickers will average upwards of $9 weekly under the new 75-cent a hundredweight scale, growers claimed today.

Under the old 60-cent scale, they averaged about $7.20 weekly.
The average picker, growers explained, can pick upwards of 200 pounds daily. Many, they claimed, can pick as much as 500 pounds, and some, principally women and older persons, cannot average 200 pounds.

Testimony taken by the state fact-finding committee at Visalia recently indicated men pickers averaged $7 weekly under the old scale and women, about $5.

GOVERNMENT BOOSTS GOLD PRICE

THREE DIFFICULT PROBLEMS WILL CONFRONT CONFERENCE ON RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA

By JOSEPH A. BAIRD
United Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1933, by United Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Three difficult problems, at least, will confront President Roosevelt and Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinoff of the Soviet Union when they meet here next month to discuss the terms of Russian recognition.

But these problems are not expected to block recognition. Mr. Roosevelt referred to them in his recent letter to Litvinoff as "serious" but not insoluble.
The problems are:
1. Communist propaganda in the United States.
2. Claims of each government against the other.
3. Methods of stimulating trade.
Propaganda Easy Question
The question of propaganda, it is expected, can be disposed of during the talks here. On the other two problems, Mr. Roosevelt and Litvinoff probably will seek only a method of settlement, letting the details be worked out later.

Administration leaders appear to have no fear that a Russian embassy and consulates in the United States would be used as propaganda centers. The days when the American public could be frightened by a "red scare" are gone.

The recent investigation of the Fish committee showed that there were only 12,000 dues-paying members of the Communist party in America. It estimates that the Communists had between 500,000 and 600,000 sympathizers in the United States. The report said that the Communist movement had made no progress in the A. F. of L., the army and navy, the schools, or among the Negroes. Out of the 40,000,000 votes cast in the last presidential election, the Communist candidate received only 102,785.

Will Seek Assurance
Yet, to be on the safe side and for obvious political reasons, the administration probably will seek some assurance about Communist propaganda. The Soviet union, its officials say, is ready to sign an agreement that each nation will abstain from interference with the domestic affairs of the other. Similar agreements have been signed between the Soviet union and other nations.

The problem of debts and claims is more complicated. United States claims against Russia are, briefly, these: (1) A U. S. treasury loan advanced to the Kereskoy provisional government in 1917, principal $187,000,000, interest $135,000,000.

WIGGIN STOCK PROFITS TO HALT SEX TRADE PROFITS ARE REVEALED
Personal Deals in Shares of Chase National Netted $10,425,637

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Profits by Albert H. Wiggin in personal trading in the stock of the Chase National bank were revealed today by senate stock market investigators to have been $10,425,637.02 from 1928 to 1932.

Wiggin's profits were in three corporations wholly owned by him. He contended, however, that the figures for the three corporations did not reflect the full extent of his profits and losses.
Over the same period the Chase bank itself, of which Wiggin was the head, also was dealing in its own shares. Profits to the bank were only $165,614.27 in the period which amassed millions for Wiggin.

Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, asked the banker how he could "explain that." Wiggin replied that if the figures for all his family holdings were taken into consideration his personal profit would have been very different.
"What has nothing to do with my question," Pecora said.
Pecora said the difference was "astounding" when the bank's profits were compared with the rich reward of the president of the bank.

Aside from the bank's operation in its own stock, it was dealing in other securities through the Chase Securities corporation and since the depression has taken a cash and paper loss aggregating $120,138,075.

FOG PREVENTS MACON VISIT TO SANTA ANA

Southland Disappointed as Weather Conditions Prevent Glimpse of Ship

Because of a heavy fog that lowered the "ceiling" the U. S. Navy dirigible Macon was unable to make its promised trip over Santa Ana today. Scheduled to arrive over this city at approximately 10 a. m. on its way to Los Angeles, the ship was delayed by the fog.
Flying above the dense fog the ship was screened from eyes of eager watchers. Shortly after 11 a. m. radio messages from officers aboard the dirigible said that they believed they were over San Pedro but could not come down to take their bearings. The ship later continued its journey northward.

NAVY DAY IS OBSERVED IN L. A.
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Undampened in spirit by a fog which prevented a view of the giant dirigible Macon, Southern California observed navy day today.

Open house was held on vessels of the United States fleet stationed at their base in Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors. Shore boats plied between piers and the vessels, carrying hundreds of visitors to the battleships and cruisers, where obliging sailors explained the equipment of modern fighting craft.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Mrs. J. H. Evans, president of the Highland chapter of the Women's Christian Temperance union, was reported near death today after being struck by a mid-gest automobile.

Mrs. Catherine Belman, walking with her, also was injured but not critically. Mrs. Evans suffered a fractured skull.
Police booked 17-year-old Mackley Nourse, son of a former San Francisco newspaper editor, on suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

Mrs. Evans had been attending a meeting of the Southern California W. C. T. U.

CALIFORNIA RANKS SECOND IN PROGRAM

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 27.—(UP)—California is second only to New York state in getting its NRA highway program under way, Eric Cullenward, deputy director of public works, said today.

Cullenward added that federal officials had informed the department they were "well pleased" with the progress made by California.

State records show that since September 15 the department has opened bids for highway projects totaling $8,250,000 and Cullenward estimated that more than $20,000,000 in state highway contracts would be under way by January 1, 1934.

Mints Ready For Record Metal Flow

Officials Act to Prevent Placing Premium on Hoarded Specie

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(UP)—The government today raised its price on newly mined American gold to $31.76 an ounce from the $31.54 level of yesterday. The price was an overnight advance of 22 cents an ounce.
The Washington price was 87 cents above the world price set in London today. The London price was 121 shillings two pence, up 4 1-2 per cent, which on the basis of noon exchange rate on the pound ($4.71) was $30.89 an ounce.

Today's gold price made the United States dollar worth 65.08 cents in gold, as compared with 65.54 cents yesterday.

PARIS JOYOUS AS LINDBERGH WIFE ARRIVE

Famous Flyer Battles Storm to Land Secretly at Navy Seaplane Test Station
PARIS, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was back at the scene of his world triumph today struggling vainly to be a private citizen instead of a hero worshipped by excitable Parisians who had not forgotten his New York-Paris flight of 1927.

Missing for many hours in a storm that raged along the British and French coasts, Lindbergh and his wife flew from Inverness, Scotland, to land secretly at the naval seaplane testing station near Paris and go unobserved to the Crillon hotel.

While they slept, airport attaches all over Great Britain and France watched anxiously for them. They awoke today to find thousands of Parisians, deserting their jobs, massed outside their hotel in the historic Concorde Square where Louis XVI was guillotined.

There was no doubt that to Paris Lindbergh was still the idol of 1927, when he landed at Le Bourget field after a solo flight from New York to be acclaimed hysterically and to lose apparently forever any claim to private citizenship.

NEW CONSTRUCTION PLANNED BY ARMY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(UP)—The War department today awarded contracts totaling approximately $350,000 for new construction at army posts. They included:

March Field, Riverside, Calif., to Crosser Manufacturing Co., Riverside, Calif., for three single non-commissioned officers' quarters, $19,450.

Fort Winfield Scott, Calif., to Frederick W. Smook Co., San Francisco, for a sewer and water extension, $2745; to Fay Improvement Co., San Francisco, for roads and walks, $2790; and to Eureka Electric Radio Co., San Francisco, for electric extensions, $630.
Hamilton Field, Calif., to Charles M. Davis, Paradise, Calif., for dismantling structures at Mather Field, Calif., and transferring same to Hamilton Field, $8900.

IOWA GUARDS DEPUTIZED IN FARM STRIKE

State Militiamen Operate Under Sheriff, Remove Highway Pickets

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 27.—(UP)—The national farm strike was cleared from Iowa highways today by deputy sheriffs recruited from the ranks of the Iowa national guard.

National guard officials explained that 30 men who patrolled farm-to-market highways near Glenwood acted as deputy sheriffs and not as national guardsmen. The move, they said, had no official authority from Gov. Clyde L. Herring.

Deputize Guardsmen
Sheriff William De Moss, acting, he said, on orders of Gov. Herring to keep the highways open, deputized the guardsmen last night. Sheriffs and deputies patrolled other highways leading to principal livestock and produce markets.

Two other states where pickets have dumped milk, closed creameries and turned back livestock shipments since the strike was called considered means of keeping highways open.

Gov. A. G. Schmedeman of Wisconsin warned farmers against violence, but said he did not plan use of national guardsmen. He will depend upon local enforcement agencies to maintain order, he said.

With announcement by the Wisconsin cooperative milk pool of support of the farmer strike, principal activity of strikers shifted from Iowa to Wisconsin.

Halt Milk Supply
Pickets cut off part of the milk supply to many Wisconsin towns, Creameries at Whitehall, Wis., voted to close today. At Marshall, Wis., 300 pickets stopped trucks and dumped milk on highways. Delivery of milk to Lodi and Waunakee was stopped by pickets.

Milo Reno, president of the Farm Holiday association, termed the addition of Wisconsin milk producers to the strike as the most important development of the week. He was confident of ultimate success of the strike.

Announcement in Washington that the government would peg the price of corn at 50 cents a bushel and spend millions for farm relief, was viewed by Reno as a "half way measure" that farmers would not be content to accept.

Those five points, on which, he said, a general agreement exists between "sincere drys" and "sincere wets," were:

1—The saloon must not come back.
2—Liquor must be kept out of politics.
3—Liquor must not be sold without restraint.
4—Liquor retailing licensing by the courts, must not return.
5—The sale of liquor must be so handled as to discourage bootlegging by making it unprofitable.

Governor Pinchot's speech was "What shall a dry do now?" and was made before the Pennsylvania State College Christian association. It was his first public pronouncement upon prohibition and repeal of the 18th amendment for many months.

He criticized dry leaders and enforcement agencies for conditions which have brought about repeal sentiment. He charged that wets were placed in the position of enforcing the dry laws, all nominated today.

CALIFORNIA "GOLD TOWNS" REVIVE UNDER NEW BOOM

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Picturesque California towns born in the "gold rush" days of 1849 throbbed with new vigor today under the influence of the new higher prices for the precious metal buried in hillsides and streams of the "Golden State."

Towns that had decayed since Mark Twain and Bret Hart trod their streets, that had become merely postoffice names since the flaming Lola Montez was queen of the gold fields, were active today and experiencing the thrill of a new "boom."

"There isn't an idle man in Grass Valley or Nevada City," Peter Haggarty, superintendent of the United States mint here, reported. Two thousand men have found employment recently in the gold mining industry, Walter W. Bradley,

Just Another Good Old Snake Story

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—(UP)—The worm that turned was the rattlesnake that Rosie Young, negro housemaid, bought to protect her jewelry.

It was only a nondescript reptile, one of the thousands of rattlers that slither aimlessly across Arizona desert sands, when Rosie bought it. She gave it a good home in a box, fed it choice tidbits of flies and other insects and placed it in her bedroom. Beside it she deposited her box of jewels. For the first time in months, Rosie breathed a sigh of relief. Her valuables were safe from burglars.

All went well for a few days. Then in the dead of night, neighbors heard blood-curdling yells in her apartment. Out dashed Rosie, mad with fright and as white as the muslin nightgown that covered her body.

"My rattlesnake," gasped Rosie, "got in my bed." Skeptical neighbors thought she was "haxed." So did police. Then officers found the snake, still coiled under the covers. They carted it off with them.

GOV. PINCHOT CRITICAL OF DRY LEADERS

Claims Prohibition Could Have Been Enforced, But Betrayed by Friends

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 27.—(UP)—Governor Gifford Pinchot, a crusading dry, today accepted philosophically the evident repeal of prohibition. He bowed to "the decision of the majority without surrender of my convictions."

He listed five "musts," which he said would constitute his obligation as governor of Pennsylvania in holding to a minimum "the evils which the return of liquor will surely bring."

Those five points, on which, he said, a general agreement exists between "sincere drys" and "sincere wets," were:

1—The saloon must not come back.
2—Liquor must be kept out of politics.
3—Liquor must not be sold without restraint.
4—Liquor retailing licensing by the courts, must not return.

PROSECUTION UNDER CODE IS LOOMING

Administrator Johnson Will Recommend Drastic Act if Report Not Submitted

WILL REFUSE BIDS
Failure to Fly Blue Eagle Bars Participation in Government Contracts

(BULLETIN)
DEARBORN, Mich., Oct. 27.—(UP)—Because the automobile code is law under the national recovery act, the Ford company intends to submit reports due under the code provisions, the United Press learned today from an unimpeachable source.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Recovery Administrator Johnson said today he would recommend prosecution of the Ford Motor Company if it failed to submit reports due soon under provisions of the automobile code.

As provided in the code, the National Automobile chamber of commerce has called for reports on operations for a period ending Oct. 15. Several large companies including Ford have not yet submitted their reports. Johnson said he understood the chamber would set a deadline around Nov. 7.

Johnson said that failure to submit reports would be a clear-cut violation of the code "and as soon as I get such a case I will act promptly and turn it over to the attorney general."

Informed later the Ford company had indicated it would submit the required report, recovery officials said submission of such data in the proper form would of course remove doubt as to Ford's compliance with this part of the code.

Bar Federal Bids
Although Ford is considered to have complied technically with provisions of the code so far, Johnson said the Ford company was not eligible to bid on government contracts.

The war department Wednesday disclosed that the Ford company would be banned from receiving any part of a contract for $10,000,000 worth of motive equipment because it did not fly the blue eagle.

Johnson said the Ford company never had been in sympathy with the recovery program and for that reason should be denied a share in government business.

"Edsel Ford told me when I was in Detroit," Johnson said, "that they never would submit to collective bargaining as required in the code."

Since that time the Ford company, under pressure from the national labor board, has permitted representatives of strikers in two eastern plants to confer with their officials. The strikers' demands, however, have been referred to the Ford home office at Dearborn.

WHITE DEFENSE IS DEALT HARD BLOW

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—(UP)—The state today dealt a crushing blow to the expected defense contention of Burnah Adams White, former Santa Ana girl, that she married Thomas White believing he was honest, then was forced into a life of crime.

On the contrary, testified the state's first witness, the young blonde participated with White in a holdup two weeks before they were married.
Leslie Bartel testified that he and a woman companion were held up on August 16 by White and the defendant, that White robbed him of $4 and then forced him to turn over the keys of his car to his blonde accomplice, who drove away in it. The car was found two miles away the next day, Bartel said.

Thousands of people lined the waterfront at San Pedro and Long Beach to greet the aircraft making its first trip over the southland since being permanently stationed at its base at Sunnyvale several weeks ago. At that time Commander J. H. Dressel, of the craft, took to the sea before reaching Los Angeles in his trip from Lakehurst, N. J.

Ceremonies commemorating the opening of the nation's mariners were held at the harbor and in the city. In a brief ceremony at the city hall Mayor Frank L. Shaw and Rear Admiral Charles Russell Train emphasized importance of building the United States navy up to treaty limits.

A broadcast from the Macon was heard at noon, when the craft's band played martial music, following a description of the flight over the city by officers aboard it.

A luncheon was held for naval officials and business leaders at the Biltmore hotel, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. Vice Admiral Walton R. Sexton and Dr. Frederick P. Woelner were principal speakers.

Mayor Frank L. Shaw, and E. J. Arber, president of the harbor commission, were to dedicate the new navy landing at the other harbor at 3 p. m. Rear Admiral Thomas J. Scann, commander of the navy base force, was to make the acceptance speech.

The day's program will be brought to a close tonight with a spectacular display of searchlights from warships anchored in the harbor. The spectacle will be presented between 8 and 8:30 p. m.

(To the Editor of The Register:) All the Western States held a convention here in Los Angeles the other day on taxation to see what the running of the various States was costing 'em. Well, they found it was costing 'em so much that they are talking now about letting Mexico have them back. It's taken since (I believe it was 1812) for us to realize Mexico won that war, but like all conventions it did nothing but hold a business meeting and pass some resolutions, then held a banquet and the waiters passed some cocktails, then they all went home and got ready to vote for the same politicians that put the last tax on 'em. But a good time was had by all. Please pass the gravy.

board of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation said that $50,000,000 in 90 days RFC notes had been authorized for use in purchasing the metal.

Sellers were required to swear their metal had just been taken from natural deposits within the United States. Scrap gold, such as melted up jewelry, commanded only $20.67 an ounce, the price fixed by law many years ago, although there is no difference in the metal purchased.

The government differentiated between old and newly mined gold to prevent placing a premium on some $200,000,000 of hoarded gold coin and other millions of dollars worth in the form of jewelry.

The purchase of the newly mined metal, the government hopes, will cause a general rise in commodity prices because of the unexplained but close relationship between the price of gold used as money and the price of goods as gold buys.

It is the history of the world, some economists assert, that the prices of gold and commodities have made parallel rises and falls. Others dispute this and assert that if it is true it is coincidence and not because there is any valid reason for it. Similar dispute rages over silver, with remonetization enthusiasts claiming that silver and wheat have made parallel rises and declines.

Federal reserve banks, the mints and assay offices will act as agents for the RFC in the new gold purchases. Payment will be made not in currency but in new RFC notes maturing Feb. 1.

By discounting these notes at the banks, the miner will be able to obtain currency immediately. The banks will carry them until maturity when the RFC would retire them with cash.

WORKERS TO ACCEPT 75 CENT SCALE

played by growers and governmental officials to break our strike. . . . It is clear to the workers that the government will not recognize any union which has a militant policy of struggle in the interest of the working class. We also understand that only the mass organization of the workers will force the government and employers to recognize us even against their desires. "We are therefore issuing the statement as a result of the majority vote in every strike local; and this statement becomes the basis on which we officially call off the strike of cotton pickers."

DISEASE STALKS STRIKERS' CAMP
FRESNO, Cal., Oct. 27.—(UP)—Disease stalked the tattered camp of 3000 striking Mexican cotton pickers at Corcoran today, spurred authorities in their plans to evacuate the squalid "city."

An outbreak of diphtheria threatened to spread among the closely packed men, women and children. Many cases of dysentery were reported previously.

Kings county officials, backed by the state department of health, planned to quarantine the affected persons and disperse the remainder, according to information received here. Anti-diphtheria serums were given many.

Wholesale return of pickers to the fields they abandoned to demand $1 per hundredweight was expected during the day. Local groups of the Cannery and Agricultural Workers' Industrial union accepted the compromise wage scale of 75 cents a hundredweight.

Capitulate To Hunger
Efforts of Caroline Decker, their blonde fire-brand leader, to keep them out until growers and the state recognized the union and hired pickers only through the union, were expected to be ineffectual in the face of approaching hunger. None of the strikers has been given federal or other relief since the 75-cent scale was adopted by growers at the request of state and federal officials.

An abortive strike of Merced county cotton pickers, hitherto unaffected by the Southern valley strike, ended quickly. The Merced pickers, spouted by agitators sent from the southern section, walked out demanding 80 cents a hundredweight. They had received 60 cents and were to have been paid 75 cents starting yesterday. They accepted the latter amount and agreed to return to work.

Seek Reparation
Meanwhile, the Corcoran strikers awaited reply to an appeal to the Mexican government for reparation. The plea, telegraphed to Plutarco Elias Calles, former president, caused county officials to delay execution of evacuation orders yesterday.

Spread of labor troubles into the citrus groves, where harvest will begin in about three weeks, was expected. Agitators reportedly were at work among citrus pickers in Tulare county, stirring up unrest.

The majority of the citrus pickers will be laborers who have worked and struck for higher wages in peach, grape and cotton harvests, successively, keeping the fertile San Joaquin valley in turmoil since June.

perial government to American private banks, $85,000,000; and (3) claims of American citizens for property confiscated by Russia, about $400,000,000. These total about $897,000,000.

Russia Will Deal
Although Russia originally repudiated all obligations contracted by "capitalistic governments"—its predecessors—at least two responsible spokesmen, former Foreign Minister Chicherin and Litvinoff have indicated their willingness to negotiate a settlement of the American claims.

On its side, however, Russia has indicated it will have claims to put forward for property destroyed by American troops in Russia at a time when the two nations were not at war. Under pressure from the Allies, President Wilson sent 7000 troops under Maj. General William S. Graves into Siberia and another expedition to Archangel to guard military stores and perform other missions. The American soldiers had several clashes with Russian troops.

The American private claims probably will be referred to a commission. Assent of congress would be required to reduce the Russia at a time when the two Russia for property damages. On these subjects, the president can only agree to recommend to congress.

The third problem is the financing of trade. The Reconstruction Finance corporation now is considering a plan for advance credits for Russian purchases here.

FORD COMPANY PROSECUTION, N. R. A. THREAT

Mich. and the strike dispute still is hanging fire.

Will Reject Bids
In the first direct test of Ford bids on government contracts, Johnson and Director Fencher of the civilian conservation corps had informed him he was going to reject low bids on a large number of trucks submitted by a Ford dealer here.

Johnson expected this policy to be followed by all other government agencies including the war and navy departments which are preparing to let the contracts for millions of dollars worth of automotive and airplane equipment.

Johnson said that the fact that a Ford dealer might have signed a retail code and be displaying the blue eagle would make no difference in the bidding of Ford bids. "A billion dollar corporation can't hide behind a $10,000 dealer," Johnson declared.

The penalties to which Ford might be subject in event he fails to submit the required reports will be a matter for the court to decide, Johnson said.

He pointed out that the recovery act authorized injunction proceedings to stop code violations and also provides penalties of $500 and imprisonment of six months for each day that a code violation continues.

The Ford company is complying with the law, it was said at company headquarters here, and does not plan to violate the code through failure to submit the reports.

As the reports are not due for some time, the company feels that NRA Administrator Johnson was not justified in stating he would recommend prosecution if the reports are not submitted.

The United Press learned that while Ford intends to comply with the law, he does not regard signing the automobile code and flying the blue eagle as necessary under the law.

The text of the Ford statement:

Ford Statement
"Mr. Johnson's vocabulary has got him down again. Before assuming the airs of a dictator, he should fortify himself with evidence that Henry Ford has refused compliance with government requirements."

"The public has known the Ford Motor company for 30 years and is not dependent on Mr. Johnson for information concerning it. "It is an act of injustice for Mr. Johnson to intimate that any refusal has been made of any proper demand on the Ford Motor company, especially since Mr. Johnson knows that even his original signers have not yet had time to file the report which he charges this company with refusing."

"We suggest a code of fair publicity for Mr. Johnson's interviews."

DAMAGED VESSEL PUT IN DRYDOCK

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Owners of the freighter Silver Palm planned to move their damaged vessel into drydock today after its examination by the naval board of inquiry investigating the collision in which three officers of the U. S. cruiser Chicago were killed.

The board viewed the Chicago at Mare Island navy yard and the freighter at its pier here to survey the damage, estimated at $200,000, caused by the accident off Point Sur during a period of heavy fog.

The inquiry group was to meet in naval district headquarters late today to move their investigation to Mare Island where they expected to sit at least a week.

ed "for wet and political reasons by wet politicians."

"But responsibility for the discrediting of the 18th amendment does not lie upon wets alone," he said. "It lies upon the dry leaders as well. For they laid down on the job. They shut their eyes, refused to see and refused to act. It was a sorry story, this tale of how prohibition was betrayed in the house of its friends. But it needs to be told, and some day I hope it will be told at length."

Could Enforce Law
"On the basis of practical experience, I know that prohibition could have been enforced."

Pinchot said there was only one way to prevent a return of the conditions that existed before prohibition and that through a working combination of "sincere dries" and "sincere wets" to keep liquor and politics apart.

"Just as I demanded that every wet should accept the decision of the American people when they went dry, so now I must myself accept the decision of the American people when they go wet. In accepting that decision, I have not weakened or surrendered my allegiance to the dry cause. I have simply done what I hold every good American must do under the circumstances."

PEREZ NAMED BY JURY AS KNIFE WIELDER

Naming Joe Perez of El Toro, as the presumed murderer of Melchor Duarte, 24, Talbert Mexican who was stabbed to death on Monday night, a coroner's jury returned a verdict at the inquest held yesterday afternoon from the Winbiger Funeral home.

The verdict read that "Duarte came to his death by means of a sharp instrument presumably in the hands of Joe Perez." Testimony was given by Cecilia Espinosa, owner of the Arizona Cafe, near which the alleged stabbing took place, that he saw Perez hack Duarte with a knife.

Perez had been missing since Monday night from his home in El Toro and police throughout the state have been searching for the family. Duarte was found early Tuesday morning near First and Hunter street with 22 stab wounds in his body.

Espinosa and Marcos Reynosa, both held as material witnesses for the inquest, were released yesterday on motion of the district attorney.

Macurda held that inflation is not a desperate remedy for a desperate situation and that it would on the whole interfere with recovery now under way; A. H. Allen gave a craft talk on citrus growing, and Allison C. Honer gave figures showing that the building industry is second in importance in the nation, and first in California.

OPPOSITION TO WATER PROJECT IS EXPRESSED

Opposing the Central Valley
Water Project, which will be voted on by voters of the state at the election on December 19, a resolution was adopted by members of the water committees of the Orange County Farm Bureau and the Associated Chambers of Commerce

Adoption of the resolution followed considerable discussion of posed to be financed through the government by voting revenue bonds.

Senator N. T. Edwards, Orange, said his only objection to the bill was that any agency of the state could be called on to contribute to the support of the project. He expressed doubt that the government would supply money for the pro-

BEGIN STUDY OF ZONING FOR ORANGE COUNTY

Preliminary steps toward a survey of Orange county to determine the need and demand for a county plan are being taken by
L. Deming Tilton, planning consultant of Los Angeles. Tilton is working with County Road Superintendent Nat H. Neff, under direction of the county planning commission.

Tilton met yesterday with the planning commission and outlined the preliminary steps to be taken before starting to prepare the county plan. He said that the first step to be taken is to determine whether or not the county needs a zoning plan. If that need is revealed the next step is to determine the type of plan that is appropriate.

After determining whether or not there is need for the zoning plan and deciding upon what type plan is suitable it will be necessary, he said today, to prepare a statement outlining advantages and disadvantages of the plan.

This statement will also include explanations of troubles to be encountered by persons planning to build and by county officials in enforcing the zoning.

"A planning commission is a great deal like the public health service," Tilton said. "Considerable of its work is preventative rather than curative. The public health service devotes a large portion of its time toward keeping a community well instead of waiting and curing ill after they have started."

"The function of a planning commission is the same. Through intelligent planning many community ills can be prevented at a smaller cost than would be incurred should the ill be permitted to manifest itself."

Tilton is preparing a map, preparatory to starting his survey.
In which the incorporated areas are set out from the unincorporated area where the planning commission will have authority.
This map also shows the rough, hilly section of the county where there is little need for a zoning plan.

Tilton said, "We know the tendency of communities to develop around existing areas of population. We expect a steady pressure toward future urbanizing and subdividing of areas that are at present considered as agricultural territory."

"Knowing this the planning commission, through its county plan, will try to bring about such development in the area that when the time comes that increased population will have practically merged the cities into one popular area the merging will be systematic. To be systematic the plan must provide for streets and subdivisions and at the same time preserve the scenic values and recreational centers of the territory."

ARRAIGN TWO FOR MURDER: 3 SENTENCED

Arraignments of two defendants on murder charges and one on grand theft, the filing of informations charging violation of the penal code on the part of four persons, and pronouncement of sentence in the case of three offenders, today made up the regular weekly criminal calendar held in department two and three of superior court.

A plea of not guilty was entered by Jesus Pena, Mexican laborer, of Delhi, charged with the murder of Francisco Mendoza last November, whose body was found a short time ago in a ravine near Laguna Beach. A similar plea was entered by Mrs. Sylvia Delsie Ybarra, of Stanton, alleged to have been an accomplice of Pena in the murder of Mendoza. The efforts of Attorney Maxwell Burke, representing Pena, and Attorney Albert Launer, representing Mrs. Ybarra, to secure separate trial for each defendant was resisted by Deputy District Attorney James L. Davis. A formal motion for separate trial was denied by Superior Judge James L. Allen. Trial of the pair was set for November 15.

Wettlin Pleads

A plea of guilty was entered by D. G. Wettlin, Santa Ana attorney, charged with grand theft in connection with the alleged misappropriation of funds belonging to the estate of Jacob Halst, of Orange. The defendant was represented by Attorney B. Z. McKinney who immediately following the arraignment made an oral application for probation, the hearing of which was set for November 7 by Judge Allen.

Informations were filed in the department two against the following defendants Luciano Martinez, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under influence of intoxicating liquor; William J. Celke, charged with non-support of a minor child; J. B. Hayden, charged with issuing a worthless check in the amount of $10, made out to L. Obar and drawn on a Huntington Beach bank; and Ernest Ramos, charged with assault with deadly weapon upon the person of Naomi Ramos. Questioned by the court, all four of the defendants stated that they were without attorneys and requested that they be furnished counsel by the court. Attorneys were assigned by the court.

Three Sentenced

An application for probation filed by Earl Bell, charged with burglary of a bait store on the San Clemente pier, was denied by Judge Allen who sentenced the accused to the Preston School of Industry.

William R. Ricks, charged with second degree burglary, in connection with the burglarizing of the Amundson store in San Clemente some time ago, was sentenced to Folsom prison by Superior Judge G. K. Scovel. When arraigned on the charge, the defendant entered an insanity plea, which failed when he was found sane by a jury and later convicted.

Hollis Cunningham, charged with burglarizing of the home of J. W. Sackett, 1313 Lincoln Boulevard, Anaheim, was sentenced to two years at the Preston School of Industry by Judge Scovel.

CITY LEAGUE CONSIDERS JAIL CHARGES, POLICE RADIO AND NAVAL BASE

Endorsement of a naval base for Southern California, discussion on prices for feeding prisoners at the county jail, opposition to cities paying for the maintenance of a county police radio system and criticism of the California League of Municipalities were among the important matters taken up at the monthly meeting of the Orange County League of Municipalities at Brea last night.

Councilman Tom Talbert of Huntington Beach, chairman of the Orange county committee to secure a naval base for Southern California, appealed to the cities for financial and moral support in the campaign. He outlined the financial advantages of such a project and declared that there would be a two million payroll monthly and a total expenditure of about $64,000,000 annually.

He said that the protection of a naval base would be a great asset and that northern California was making a determined bid for the government station.

Secretary of Navy Swanson stated in Los Angeles a few days ago that it was improbable that a new base would be established and that funds available would be used for new ships.

Ask Donations

Mayor Frank Champion of Laguna Beach, member of the naval base finance committee, joined Talbert in asking for a maximum donation of $100 from each city to carry on the expense of the work. Each group was asked to carry the appeal back to their council meetings. It was announced that Seal Beach and Huntington Beach have already pledged this amount.

On a motion by Councilman A. C. Hasenjaeger of Santa Ana, it was moved that the league endorse the program of the committee and allow the individual cities to support the campaign.

Supervisor LeRoy Lyon explained the stand of the board of supervisors on the jail question and said that the results of an exhaustive study would be announced shortly. He agreed with the contention of the cities that there should be an equal rate for prisoners confined for state and county offenses, whether committed by city or county officers, but thought that violators of city ordinances should be kept at a slightly extra expense.

Reveals Charges

He said that the matter probably would be settled in a few weeks and that he would bring full data on the proposition to the next association meeting. At the present time, cities pay 20 cents per meal for prisoners, the county pays 12 cents and the government pays 63 cents per day for federal prisoners.

A resolution regarding the county police radio was passed unanimously and will be sent to the board of supervisors. It opposed the contention that the cities should pay most of the maintenance and proposed that county funds should be used for the installation and upkeep. Cities were urged to equip cars at once and be in readiness to put the system in effect.

Supervisor Lyon pointed out that the present delay was caused by federal authorities and the necessity of securing a license and wavelength. He said that he could unofficially report that the majority of the board favored the resolution and the use of the county money for the radio.

Criticize State Body

Introduced by Chairman Lynn A. Hogue, mayor of Brea, a sweeping criticism of the California League of Municipalities was contained in a resolution prepared by the committee of mayors and passed unanimously by the association.

Included in it was a demand for better programs at state conventions, adequate representation on the state board of directors, criticism of the directors for ignoring Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, Imperial and San Diego counties, comprising nearly 75 cities, request that Los Angeles and San Francisco be included on the directorate, demand for a one cent share of the gas tax and offer of support to the gas tax committee.

GERHART TO SPEAK AT FORUM TONIGHT

Harry S. Gerhart, forum leader, is speaking at the People's Forum, Third and Bush streets, tonight at 7:30 on the subject "Have Our Scientific, Educational and Religious Institutions Failed to Meet the Needs of Humanity?"

"While our educational system boasts that it is second to none in the world, why is it that we are passing through the worst period of mental, moral, and ethical bankruptcy ever recorded in history? With tremendously large numbers of the cases of crime committed by young men and women below the age of 20 should we not examine critically our educational system that has played the main role in the education of these delinquents?" asks Gerhart.

The Forum has especially invited high school and college students and teachers to this discussion and to present their views.

S. A. LEGION TO ENTER 3 UNITS IN BIG PARADE

Santa Ana American Legion Post No. 131, will enter its crack drum and bugle corps, a float and a marching unit in the Armistice day parade in Orange, it was announced last night at the bi-monthly meeting of the post in Getty Hall.

Commander Charles S. Swanner, who presided, also announced that the drum and bugle corps would lead the parade in the Halloween celebration parade in Anaheim Halloween night.

Bert Castelf, chairman of the membership committee, announced that 51 new members have been taken into the post since the membership drive started October 20. He announced that the big drive for members would be launched on November 1.

Theo Bolte, chairman of the welfare committee, and Harry Edwards, welfare officer, appealed to the post for clothes for veterans in need of them.

Commander Swanner appointed Cornish Roehm and William Penn as delegates to the second meeting of the Allied Veterans Council of Orange county to be held Monday night in the Orange Legion hall.

George Kellogg, William Penn, Frank Corey, Hunter Leach, Judge J. B. Tucker, Harold Brown, Glen Cave, Dr. Fred Earel and Bob Sandon were elected delegates to the twenty-first district and were urged by Commander Swanner to attend a district meeting in Chino November 5.

William Penn, a city councilman, announced that application had been made to the city council for permission to use the Santa Ana Stadium for staging a big rodeo and program on Armistice day.

An invitation was extended by the Rev. W. J. Hatter, for members of the Legion post to attend a service in the Episcopal church the Sunday following Armistice day.

Following the business session, members of the post joined with the auxiliary in holding a Halloween party, which was featured by dancing and serving of refreshments.

UNITY REQUIREMENT FOR FEDERAL FUNDS ON FLOOD CONTROL WORK IN COUNTY

Federal financial aid for an Orange county flood control program, estimated at a cost of about $8,000,000, to be undertaken by the United States government as a harbor and river protection measure, is conditioned that such a program has the unified and harmonious support of the various interests of the county, it was revealed at a conference meeting held yesterday in Los Angeles in the office of the Public Works administrator.

Among those who attended the meeting were William C. Jerome, representing the board of supervisors; C. Roy Brown, of Irvine; former Supervisor William Schumacher of Buena Park; and William T. Wallop of Anaheim, directors of the newly created Orange county water district.

Colonel Evans, connected with the Los Angeles federal administrator's office, confirmed a report released here a few days ago by Ross Shafer, of Tustin, to the effect that the federal government stands ready to finance approved projects up to 100 per cent. Colonel Evans made it plain, however, to the Orange county representatives that the government would not take favorable action on any request for financing in which the proposed undertaking was a subject of controversy among local interests.

Colonel Evans also advised the Orange county representatives to get in touch with Forest Eaton, chief engineer of the Los Angeles county flood control district, who is now in Washington seeking federal funds for flood control projects in his county.

It also was pointed out by Colonel Evans that the project, if financed by federal funds, would be limited strictly for flood control as a protection measure to the river and the harbor, and would be completely divorced of any water conservation features.

Supervisor Jerome announced today that in order to eliminate any possible obstacle to receiving federal aid for much needed flood control projects, conferences will be held with all interested parties, these having for objective the ironing out of any possible differences and the presentation of a unified and comprehensive program.

DRAWS $50 FINE ON DRIVING COUNT

Vincent J. Mullen, 24, 1535 West Sixty-sixth street, Los Angeles, was convicted of reckless driving by a jury before Judge C. C. (Gavy) Cravath sitting in the Laguna Beach justice court Thursday as the result of an accident on Coast highway, near Emerald Bay, on Labor day, in which the Misses Florence and Elizabeth McDonald of Tucson, Ariz., and several others were injured. A recommendation for leniency was made by the jury and Judge Cravath fined Mullen $50, his bond of $100 being continued pending his payment.

According to the testimony, Mullen attempted to pass a car operated by Allan Robinson, of Los Angeles. Miss Florence McDonald was driving in the opposite direction. Mullen testified that there was room to go between the two cars and crossed to the left in front of the McDonald car. Miss McDonald turned to the right, she said, when she saw the Mullen car coming toward her on her own lane.

State Traffic Officer George Peterkin testified that Mullen's skid marks showed that his car had skidded 155 feet from the time he applied his brakes to the point of impact and Assistant District Attorney Preston Turner introduced testimony to show that the car must have been traveling at a high rate of speed.

During a recess William Caldwell, young Laguna Beach attorney, entered the case and conducted his first jury trial. Frank S. Browne was foreman of the jury.

Police News
C. J. Baker, 29, Westminster truck driver, was arrested by Santa Ana police yesterday for Santa Barbara officers on a warrant charging grand theft of a truck and trailer. He was taken north by the northern officer.

Dennis Lipton, 902 Orange avenue, reported to police yesterday that a .38 caliber revolver was stolen from her car while it was parked in Los Angeles Monday.

John Sharkey, 29, Santa Ana ice man, was booked at the county jail for drunkenness at 10:50 a. m. yesterday after police were called to McClay and Chestnut streets to investigate a man in the road. Sharkey was lying in the road, unable to move, according to officers, and had one-half pint of whiskey remaining in a bottle.

Dr. E. G. Motley, 424 South Broadway, who had a fender guide stolen from his car several weeks ago, reported to police yesterday that another fender guide was taken from his car while it was parked at the Municipal Bowl Wednesday night.

Mrs. M. C. Robbins, 517 South Flower street, told police she found a black purse near the huge J. Lowe clothes.

CHARM OF OLD MEXICO TOLD BY TRAVELER

Mexico is more foreign in atmosphere than the most of Europe, and no other country offers a trip which costs so little and where the visitor sees so much, according to R. W. Hemphill, the "white collar tramp" of the Southern California Tourist Bureau, with which the First National Bank travel bureau is affiliated, in an address yesterday noon at James' cafe before members of the Santa Ana Lions club.

From a tourist standpoint, Mexico is neglected, Hemphill said, and added: "We probably overlook her because she is so close to us."

Interesting facts regarding Mexico were given by the speaker, who said her history can be traced back hundreds of years, that she has made the only distinctly American contribution to modern architecture, that Mexico's area is one-fourth that of the United States, and that her 2500 mile length offers a great and unique variety of climatic conditions, including tropics, dense jungles, deserts where it never rains, and mountain peaks forever capped with snow and ice.

Mexico produces nearly everything, including cotton, maize, tobacco, and tropical fruits, and except for oil, gold, and silver, her mineral resources are practically untouched, the speaker declared. To appreciate Mexico, Hemphill said, one needs the eye of an artist and the soul of a poet. Mexico practices the gracious arts of living, he said, and extends open-hearted hospitality to visitors who come with open minds.

and a desire to really know the people there.

To those thinking of a trip to Mexico, Hemphill suggested there are several routes, including the air lines, several railroad routes, but that a very interesting trip is to go at least part way by boat, to Mazatlan or Manzanillo, and thence by rail to Guadalajara, the second largest city. Mexico City is a cosmopolitan center of more than a million population, and is the logical place for tourist headquarters, as good motor roads radiate to all nearby points of interest, including the pyramids and temples more than a thousand years old.

President Carson Smith presided at the meeting, and Lester Carden was program chairman for the day. Mrs. R. O. Grover, entertained the Lions with two delightful whistling solos, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. George Stinson.

New members received into the club included Ben Baker, Bill Smith, Howard Barrows, Therman Means, and Dr. R. O. Grover, a very appropriate reception address being given by Past President Homer Chaney.

The ranks of "key members," who have brought two or more new members into the club, received an addition in the person of Vic Walker, the key being presented by Gil Ward, chairman of the membership committee. Other key members in the club include A. I. Mollenhuth, Dr. E. H. Rowland, International director, Ray Atkinson, Homer Chaney, and Secretary Sunny Sundquist.

Next week's program will be in charge of the Orange Lions club, which will visit the Santa Ana den in a body next Thursday.

YELLOWJACKETS AND PANTHERS MEET SATURDAY

FULLERTON, Oct. 27.—Coach Arthur L. Nunn's Yellowjackets and Bert Heiser's Chaffey Panthers will clash here tomorrow afternoon, with a close game predicted.

Drawing a bye in the conference schedule last week, the Yellowjackets have been drilling on speed and deception in hopes of terminating the Panthers' chances for the Eastern division championship, already solidified by a 15-13 tie with Al J. Day's Citrus Owls.

Elmer Pryor, destined for all-conference recognition this season, is expected to be a marked man tomorrow, when the Panthers make their third conference appearance, having taken San Bernardino, 24 to 7, and tied Citrus.

Nunn has shaken up his team somewhat in order to get a stronger forward wall. Gene Oser, 180-pound fullback, has been shifted to Don Dugler's guard berth in an effort to strengthen the gap caused when the veteran turned his ankle in practice.

Grey Simpson, 180-pound freshman, who learned his football under Donald C. Cruikshank, has replaced Victor Sutherland and Don Tiny Gaiser, 220-pounder, who alternated at right tackle. Simpson has shown more determination and will be permitted to start tomorrow.

NAME OFFICERS WHEN WELFARE LEADERS MEET

FULLERTON, Oct. 27.—Continuing along the policy adopted last year and with plans to enlarge the program to meet the anticipated needs this year, Fullerton representatives organized yesterday afternoon for welfare work, with Henry L. Parry named a chairman of the committee, Harry May, secretary, and G. Charles Johnson, treasurer, at a session in the Chamber of Commerce office at 1:30 p.m.

The appointment of an executive committee to handle funds was left to the elected officers and a meeting is to be called Monday afternoon to further discuss policies and to make definite plans for ways and means.

The program may again include assistance to all organizations and special emphasis will be placed on assisting all who need immediate relief while awaiting county relief.

Although the program as followed by the American Legion last year in feeding the transients was a marked success, and practically self-supporting, with the sale of wood cut by those helped, Herbert Sattler, representing the Legion, said he was not authorized to say whether it will be continued this year.

Fred B. Stever presented plans whereby immediate relief may be given if a large group of persons will subscribe to monthly money orders of small amounts, about $1, to be given by a central committee on one merchant.

Practically all organizations were represented yesterday. E. W. Moore was temporary chairman of the meeting. Twenty-two attended.

NRA CAMPAIGN OUTLINED FOR WOMAN'S CLUB

FULLERTON, Oct. 27.—Mrs. R. A. Marsden, assisted by Mrs. Glenn Lewis and Mrs. S. W. Douglas, last night entertained members of Fullerton Woman's club at the Marsden home on Highland, where Mrs. Albert Launer, assistant director of the NRA work in Fullerton, talked at length on the plans of the government.

She said justice, patience, toleration, honesty and moral courage are essentials to success of the government program, and described as a chief difficulty the superstructure of credit built on a small gold basis.

Mrs. Launer said she was in the strike area in the San Joaquin valley recently and that conditions there are deplorable.

Mrs. Launer was introduced by Mrs. Grace Ford, chairman of law observance.

At the close of the session, refreshments were served. Mrs. Alice Raddock and Mrs. William Starbuck, members who have birthdays this week, were presented with birthday cakes.

Next meeting will be November 8 at the American Legion hall, where the anniversary banquet will be served by members of the Legion auxiliary.

The Marsden home was decorated with Mexican sunflowers and zinnias.

RED CROSS DRIVE PLANS OUTLINED

FULLERTON, Oct. 27.—Every district included in the Fullerton Red Cross district was represented last night at a union meeting for organization and for planning to open the roll call at the city hall, where the Rev. George Tinsley, chairman, presided.

The Rev. Mr. Tinsley presented the plan of the Red Cross and outlined the plans of campaign. A branch meeting will be held Monday, October 30, in Yorba Linda, where William Wade, chairman last year, will talk on the purposes of the roll call drive.

The Register welcomes news and Fullerton residents are urged to telephone or bring their items to the branch office, located at 246 West Commonwealth avenue. The phone number is Fullerton 615W.

CROWD PRESENT FOR FORUM DISCUSSION ON CONDITIONS OF PRESENT DAY, REMEDIES

FULLERTON, Oct. 27.—A large crowd heard speakers outline difficulties of today and remedies for conditions, at the open forum meeting at the high school auditorium last night. This forum was a continuation of that held last week, in which the director, Charles Ruby, law teacher of the high school, selected representatives from all walks of life to divulge their views.

George Crawford, manager of the Northern Orange County Citrus exchange, discussed the orange business, in the course of which he said that Jack Prizer, manager of the Placentia Orange Growers' association packing houses, has a suggestion he hopes to see and has reason to believe will be written into the orange code when it is presented from Washington, D. C. This particular phase on stabilization includes provision that enough be saved from the sales of fruit of good years to purchase the poor surplus on "lean" years, thus relieving the rancher.

Cites Competition

Some suggestions as to the trouble as presented by Crawford are that buying power is less; too much fruit is shipped for the demand; poor appearing crop; imperfect distribution; too much competition; beer competition; need of more elimination through bi-products, charity giving and export.

Crawford brought the idea that through the Washington code he hoped to see favorable conditions next year.

H. H. Foster, representing the labor unions, after expressing the idea that the only unions in Orange county are the building trade unions, said that NRA has accomplished many of the things organized labor has been trying to accomplish, including elimination of child labor, and that so far as he sees the situation, the program of NRA, if carried far enough, would solve the problem of the day.

His suggestion for further work with NRA included the making public of names of persons who do not comply, thus permitting those who do not conform. He further suggested that harmony between capital and labor has had little place in the making up of the NRA boards, and that it will take the combined efforts of all groups if success is brought about. He concluded by saying that the NRA will also have to control money as well as other phases of American life.

J. W. Nicholson, president of the Fullerton Unemployed Workers' league, said, "In this sick world, it is obvious that man cannot be eliminated, and he is unusually sick, with deep-rooted fear and mistrust."

CONDITIONS IN CHINA OUTLINED AT "Y" DINNER

FULLERTON, Oct. 27.—T. M. Elliott, Y. M. C. A. secretary in China for 30 years, spoke at the quarterly meeting of Northern Orange County Y. M. C. A. last night at the Methodist church. China is in a revolution which has five fields, political, intellectual, social, religious, and industrial, she said.

"We think China is in a chaotic condition but the Chinese people reading of the killings in our streets, strikes, robberies and kidnappings feel that we are in no less a chaotic condition than they are," the speaker declared. "Two of the main problems in China today are those of education and transportation. China is jumping from the foot stage to the automobile stage and almost to the airplane stage, which is an almost revolutionary change."

A majority of the leaders in China's revolution are Christian men and in the future we may have to look to China for further spiritual enlightenment, Elliott said in closing.

Preceding the address of Elliott, Elbert Hoffman told what the blue flag, symbol of the Christian spirit, meant to him. Wesley Kewish spoke on the brown flag, a symbol of service and Allan Butler spoke on the red flag, symbol of leadership.

Arch Raitt, Northern Orange County Y. M. C. A. secretary, gave a brief summary of the 13th season of Y. M. C. A. in northern Orange county. Fifty-six clubs and 737 members was the total enrollment of the 13th season.

Paul Thornton played a piano solo. Irwin Chapman was toastmaster of the affair. Ted Corcoran, chairman of the Y. M. C. A. district committee, presided.

The Rev. E. Dew Hoffman of the Methodist church gave the invocation and the Rev. Joseph Reese, of the Yorba Linda Friends church gave the closing prayer. The women of the Methodist church served a dinner before the meeting.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Eve Bayless, pretty assistant to Earle Barnes, advertising manager of Sixty's department store, secretly married Dick Rader, a construction superintendent. Dick opposes her continued employment, and plans to get a home but Eve is determined to go on working.

Marys Vial, fashion artist, and Ariene Smith, photographer in the advertising office, notice Eve's excitement but do not suspect her marriage. Two hours after her marriage Eve learns that she must make a trip to New York for the store and that she must leave that night.

She waits until she and Dick are at dinner before telling him this news. Dick takes her to the station and sees her aboard her train. From the train window she sees him join a gay party of young people.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER III

Eve awoke with the dawn and lay for a long while watching the wintry Hudson river as the train sped by. She wondered about Dick—what he was doing at this hour, whether he was asleep and dreaming of her or on his way to work. She reached under her pillow for the charms bag. It was there and the little gold wedding ring was safe. She tried the ring on and decided to wear it until she arrived at the hotel.

Over her black pajamas she slipped a black silk robe with a white, golden dragon heavily embroidered on the back. A pair of golden mules completed her Fullerton ensemble, and she picked up her dressing case and made for the dressing room.

"Good morning," an uncertain voice greeted Eve as she entered.

"Good morning," Eve answered with a swift appraisal of the young creature before her. An extremely plain face, with eyes which were rapidly being transformed by the expert use of cosmetics. The other girl drew a blue wool frock over her head in one quick motion. Then she stood before the long mirror and pulled the dress tightly over her hips, turning right and left.

"There! All ready for the big adventure," she announced pertly.

Eve lifted her eyebrows inquiringly. The girl lit a cigarette and confessed, "I'm nervous as a cat. This is my first trip to New York. Married girl friend lives right across the river in New Jersey, but she doesn't expect me. You see, I've taken my life in my own hands. I want to find a husband before the bells ring 30. There's a new crop of girls springing up every year, and there certainly aren't enough eligibles to go around at our four corners. My sister discovered it too late, so I'm hitting for new pastures before I'm past the age.

Eve fluffed her hair with a little jade and gold comb. The girl watched her.

"That's a pretty wedding ring," she said. "Well, you're one of the lucky ones—to have a husband in these days of competition!"

The girl's hand was on the door knob when she turned back. "My name's Corinne Devore," she said, and paused. "Not that we're likely to meet again, of course," she hurried on when Eve remained silent, debating whether or not to return the confidence by telling her own name. "I know what you're thinking," she went on defiantly. "That it sounds made up. Well, it is! My real name is Cora Dilly. I've always hated it, and I didn't see any reason for dragging it along to New York."

With that Corinne Devore was gone, leaving Eve with the guilty feeling that she had been a trifle snobbish.

"She may not be so lovely, but she's wise," Eve said to her own reflection in the mirror. "She'll make people notice her. She'll probably get her man, too, and when she does she'll know enough to hang on to him. Oh, how could I leave Dick as I did."

However, Eve was pleasantly excited as the train drew into Grand Central station. A redcap took her bags and led the way to a taxi. She reached the hotel in a flutter of anticipation. She wrote "Miss Eve Bayless" on the register and inquired if there were any messages for her. She held her breath while the clerk looked. Yes, there was a telegram.

Eve clutched it tightly as she followed the bell boy to the elevator. She looked attractive but was entirely oblivious to the appraising glances that followed her. Her suitcase unstrapped, she dismissed the boy with a tip, turned the key in the lock and, with fingers that shook, tore open the thin yellow envelope.

She stared at the message a long moment. It read: "Interview Phoebe, Inc. She knows what Lake City is wearing before we know it.—Earle Barnes."

Eve sank weakly into a deep cushioned chair. She was more frightened while the clerk looked. Yes, there was a telegram.

AVOCADO GROUP ACTIVE IN CODE DEVELOPMENTS

Independent avocado growers, both large and small, of Orange county and many other districts, are quickly responding to the special opportunity being given them just this week to cooperate in the development of a national avocado marketing code, according to an announcement today by the Calavo Growers' exchange. The quick response doubly assures growers of having a most powerful voice in the making of any avocado code, it was stated.

"To conform to the desires of federal code authorities, to accede to the request of the Florida Avocado Growers exchange which has re-opened its membership books, and to grant the accumulating membership applications of large, local independents here, the Calavo Growers' exchange has thrown open its membership books for this one week only, so that all growers may participate with, and be represented by, Calavo Growers' in the development and operation of an avocado marketing code," the announcement said. Applications must be mailed by the end of this week to the Los Angeles office, or to the local district's grower-elected Calavo director, C. V. Newman of Santa Ana.

"Officials of the Florida Avocado Growers' exchange have been in Washington now for several months, conferring with code administrators regarding what should and should not be included in an avocado marketing code. Through standardization requirements for fruit in such a code, Florida officials now hope to find a restriction against the market-devastating imports of Cuban fruit. Authorities will no more tolerate obstructionists to an avocado code, they add, than they have tolerated those few found against all other farm codes."

-- News Behind The News --

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

AUTHORITY

The telephone rang in the office of Comptroller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor the other day. News had broken that the government was going to set up a special agency with R. F. C. money to liquidate that billion dollars in frozen bank deposits.

Senator Carter Glass of Va., former Secretary of the Treasury and banking authority, was calling. "How about this story I read?" asked Glass. "What authority in law do you have?"

Comptroller O'Connor hedged a little. "I'll tell you," said the Virginia Senator. "You have the Glass Act and under it the only corporation of such a nature permitted is the Deposit Insurance Corporation. That, as you know, is limited to Federal Reserve members."

O'Connor called attention to a ruling by Attorney General Cummings that a special law permitting establishment of a banking agency in the District of Columbia under supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency. It is a liberal law and the agency would correspond to a state bank rather than a national bank.

Glass was unimpressed. In fact he served notice that he would denounce the move as illegal if the Administration persisted in carrying it through.

The Comptroller suggested that Glass have breakfast with Henry Bruere, President Roosevelt's newest financial fixer, and talk things over.

The breakfast meeting was held. Bruere apparently backed away from the proposition despite the Attorney General's decision.

SET

The defrosting operation was to have been in charge of C. B. Merriam, member of the R. F. C. On the day details were to be announced (and following the Glass-Bruere conversation) Jesse Jones, chairman of the R. F. C., received newspapermen instead of Merriam. The Texan made it clear he was going to handle the situation personally. Further, he indicated, the thawing of closed banks would continue under the existing R. F. C. policies.

So you may get our tied-up savings back so soon after all.

SOVIETS

Speculation is keen in Washington as to who will be our first Ambassador to Moscow after resumption of Russian relations. That it will be a major league job is obvious.

Two schools of thought clash whenever the topic comes up. One group is sure John Van A. McMurray will get the post.

At present McMurray is en route to Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia. He is a career man formerly stationed in China.

His proponents argue the very selection of such a solidly grounded diplomat for such a relatively unimportant assignment at Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia was the tip-off on what was to come.

These little countries border Russia. McMurray is all set to step across the line if his luck breaks that way.

Another group thinks the Russian mission will be tendered Dr. Felix Frankfurter, respected member of the Brain Trust.

And they predict if Frankfurter doesn't want it he can just about name his man.

Those so thinking are certain the job is going to a man of his faith.

DE-CODING

It would appear that the mail order group, the Macy interests and the farmers didn't fare so well in the retail code as they thought at first blush.

These were the interests fighting the cost-plus-10 per cent provision on the ground it constituted price-fixing. They succeeded in getting rid of it. The code merely said goods must not be sold below actual cost.

But, continues the code in a section labeled "Loss Limitation Provision," the selling price to consumers "should include an allowance for actual wages of store labor."

Taken on the average labor cost in department stores run around 12 per cent. In the biggest stores they mount as high as 18 per cent and more.

The Code Authority to be established in order to determine these labor costs and publish them from time to time.

It is not likely you will be able to buy many articles at cost plus 12 per cent.

General Johnson is authority for the statement it costs about 26 per cent to operate a store.

Inasmuch as the store owners have a rooted dislike of bankruptcy this 26 per cent unquestionably will be tacked on to invoice costs together with a little more for the house.

FIRST LADY

A number of cities are bidding for the model tenement structure Secretary Ickes' new Federal Housing Corporation plans to build.

It is more than likely Washington, D. C., will get the call for one big reason. Mrs. Roosevelt, like most of her predecessors, is distressed over alley conditions in the National Capital. She wants the unsanitary hovels that infest them wiped out.

Public Works has come along to make this possible if Ickes and his board will only agree. Mrs. Roosevelt is a masterful lobbyist.

NOTES

There are those who contend Russian recognition was brought forward at this precise time as an intelligent move to meet the domestic situation, particularly the farm strike.

The day it was announced a newspaperman born in Russia hung back and jokingly applied to the President for the job as ambassador. . . . Noticing his Semitic features Mr. Roosevelt replied with mock seriousness he thought it better to send the reporter to Berlin and transfer Ambassador Dodd to Moscow.

When Secretary Ickes incorporated his Housing Corporation in Delaware he was showing a desire for speed. . . . All lawyers know this State has most liberal laws under which to incorporate.

NEW YORK By James McMullin

NAVIGATION
The President's gold-price policy seen from here was neat navigation between a visible iceberg and an invisible reef.

The iceberg was farm unrest. Even Wall Street—slow to react to rural woes—had become genuinely alarmed at evidence of Milo Reno's strike progress. Clearly a price move had to be made at once or the recovery ship might have taken a Titanic dive.

Topnotch New York scouts report from the farm belt that the twist of the rudder is working. Reno himself remains a rebel but his army dwindles.

The hidden reef was almost as dangerous as the berg. After dozens of rumors about France abandoning gold the real thing is approaching. The minute it happened the dollar would have been adrift in a whirlpool of chaotic currencies. There was every chance of the dollar climbing and prices sinking once more. That also would have smashed a damaging hole in recovery's hull. Now the hull is gold-sheathed at home.

REALITIES

The real situation according to the wisest New York observers is political and psychological rather than economic. It's safe to predict that the Treasury will feel its way in raising the gold price. After each small step there will be a pause to wait for effects, the climb to be resumed when they wear off.

Wall Street's published distaste for the move was mostly for the record. What counts inside is the reprieve from greenbacks. Also the big fellows privately admit the need for such action to check the farm revolt. The chief sincere complaint is that the plan won't work in practice.

The answer from those favoring the idea is that you can't tell until you try. "And we do know the delightful consequences of a fixed gold level."

But bear in mind that the Administration is committed to nothing but a general policy with new machinery to start it rolling. The pilot can still change the course again if new shoals loom.

MIRRORS

The Administration's reliance on psychology stirs a New York old-timer to the following comment:

"Hoover used to pull rabbits out of a hat when things got bad. Roosevelt doesn't even do that. He just shows you the reflection of the rabbits in a mirror."

TRIUMPH

Off-hand the new gold policy looks like a personal triumph for Professor Warren over the united forces of Treasury and Federal Reserve advisers. The latter have been pulling for stabilization. But insiders say it should really be scored as a triple play: Reno to Daalader to Warren. The Professor has had his plan ready for some time (it was mentioned here a month ago) but he owes the chance to try it out to fractious farmers and French taxpayers.

Professor Irving Fisher's commodity dollar also looks like a winner but don't be too sure. You have to catch your price level before you can sprinkle index numbers on its tail.

AGONY

France may suffer the added agony of watching some of her precious gold hoard disappear to these shores. American exporters and speculators who have built up franc balances are sniffing the possibilities of converting their francs into gold and then selling the gold to the U. S. Government.

That would be easy money but it might be so simple to get it. Chances are the R. F. C. will buy very little gold for a while and its purchases will come from American mines.

ALLIANCE

New York was more than casually interested in the friendly chat between Milo Reno and A. F. Whitney of the Railroad Brotherhoods. The grapevine whispers that Reno was trying to enlist Brotherhood support for an embargo on wheat shipments by rail. Whitney is said to have been sympathetic but non-committal. Farm strikers have been plenty tough with trucks but they haven't ventured to fool around with the railroads.

RETAIL CODE

The retailers are far from happy about their new code but it represents a workable compromise. There is still plenty of room for cut prices on clearance sales and to meet competition and the consensus is that these loop-holes will be worked over time.

The concessions to stores in small towns were urgently needed to prevent farm resistance to NRA from reaching landslide proportions. The Blue Eagle would have been well plucked if something of this sort hadn't been done.

SUPREME COURT

New York authorities understand that at least two resignations from the U. S. Supreme Court are due in the next few months. The retiring members believe that the Court should be responsive to public opinion but are personally out of sympathy with the New Deal. Local conservatives are worried about who will get their jobs.

SIDELIGHTS

Political insiders say that Farley's chances to be Governor of New York are defunct if McKee loses. . . . Tammany's belated relief push to win votes is a boon to breadlines. . . . Lots of them have food and shelter for the first time in months.

FIGHTING TEXANS OPENS AT STATE

A fast moving melodrama featuring a laugh a minute, and an action climax chuck full of thrills. This just about sums up "Fighting Texans," the western, starring Rex Bell, which opens today at Walkers' State theater.

The story revolves around Randy Graves, ex-cowboy with a glib tongue, who goes to Burnett Junction, Texas, to manage an oil well. Graves battles his way to success, only to learn that his boss, Julian Nash, is a rascal, and that the well he has been plugging is dry. When the news leaks out, Graves is attacked by the angry mob of investors. Matters are complicated when a shooting occurs in the melee, and the young manager is falsely accused of the crime. How he clears himself, makes good his investors' money, and wins the girl he loves, supplies action for the rest of the story.

'RIP VAN WINKLE' REPEATED NOV. 4

So well received was the production of "Rip Van Winkle" at the Community Club, Laguna Beach, Wednesday night that the director, John B. Hughes, and the committee of the Community players decided to repeat it Saturday evening, November 4. Charles Radford, who played the title role, shared honors with Mary English Williams, as Dame Van Winkle, in carrying the play successfully.

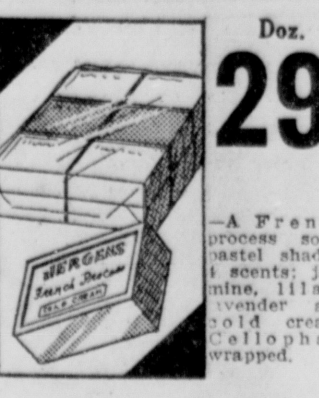

Director Hughes, because of various delays, had only 10 actual days in which to get up in the part. Mrs. Mary Herick, whose scenic work was considered remarkable for a first attempt, and Mrs. Helen Monahan, who designed and executed the costumes, with the assistance of her daughter, Mrs. Harold Ahearn, were congratulated for their constructive work for the show.

Others given praise were William W. Riddell, Laguna Beach painter; Herbert Caldwell, William Fasset, Virginia Skidmore, Catherine Deah, James Hardwick, David Monahan, Harold Ahearn, Robert Parry, Diane Meredith and Gloria McCullough.

DONS BATTLE RIVERSIDE CHAMPIONS

U. S. C. Meets Bears Tomorrow

Trojans Given Odds Against Golden Bears

BERKELEY, Cal., Oct. 27.—(UP)—Coach "Navy Bill" Ingram of the University of California amazed rabid football fans today with the declaration his team was "too hot" for the annual battle with Southern California here Saturday.

"Soothe the varsity," he pleaded with men and coeds at a big football rally. "Calm them down before the game and by 4:30 p. m. Saturday the national champions will be our own Golden Bears."

(By United Press)

California's erratic Golden Bears, whirlwinds one day, laggards the next, make their big bid for football fame against the still undefeated although tied Trojans of U. S. C. in the game that leads the parade of five Pacific Coast conference contests Saturday.

Odds of 2 to 1 were quoted to make the mighty men of Troy the favorites. Experts predicted freely that a single break would decide the battle between the 1932 national champions and the team that has been pointing mentally and physically for this single clash since the opening of the season.

Both lineups were weakened by injuries. They had Bob Ezkins, big and effective tackle, on the sidelines. Bill Ingram lamented the absence of Floyd Blower, his best forward-passer and the back who scored the winning touchdown over St. Mary's.

Oregon State College, the team that tied the Trojans to end their string of consecutive victories at 25, will meet Washington State college in an important game in the northwest sector.

Stanford University's undefeated team was in the northwest for a battle with the University of Washington at Seattle. The Indians revealed a scoring strength for the first time last week. Washington, hampered by injuries most of the season, faced the contest with its best back, Sullosky, not ready for a full game.

University of Oregon, leader of the conference, invades Los Angeles to meet Bill Spaulding's U. C. L. A. team. The power drives of Mike Mikulak, who has crushed opposition thus far, was expected to give the Oregon array the advantage in the contest.

Idaho was favored to win its conference clash at home against the University of Montana eleven. San Francisco district fans will be offered a full program of football over the week end for today St. Mary's of Moraga meet University of Nevada at Kearsar stadium and on Sunday on the same field the U. S. F. Dons play the Gonzaga team. The St. Mary's eleven leaves immediately after the game for New York to play Fordham next week.

Amos Alonzo Stagg's College of the Pacific team entertains Chico State at Stockton in a night battle tonight. In other Friday night games Cal Tech plays Whittier and Redlands clashes with San Diego.

Saturday's schedule also presents College of Puget Sound vs. Bellingham; Willamette vs. Linfield; Idaho College vs. East Oregon Normal; Pacific University vs. Albany; Santa Barbara State vs. Pomona; La Verne vs. the San Diego Marines; and Fresno State vs. the California Aggies.

MRS. ROBINSON, 75, WINS GOLF TOURNEY

An 85-10-75 gave Mrs. L. H. Robinson a seven-stroke advantage over three other players in Class A at the Santa Ana Country club tournament yesterday. Mrs. R. D. Crenshaw, who came in with a score of 102-20-72; Mrs. C. V. Doty with a score of 95-13-72; and Mrs. F. C. Drumm with 100-12-82, tied for honors.

Class B winners were: Mrs. C. K. Dods, 106-27-81; Mrs. W. E. Klinger, 107-28-84; Mrs. Paul Hall, 106-21-55 and Mrs. Ludy Schaefer, 111-26-85.

Class C winners were: Mrs. M. N. Thompson, 125-35-90; Mrs. Nat Neff, 129-38-91 and Mrs. E. T. Mateer, 129-32-91.

BIG BAD ALLEY OOP OF GRID

They are calling Aaron Rosenberg, University of Southern California guard, "Alley Oop," after the character in the comic strip, because of his warlike tendencies. Aaron does his ripping up of enemy lines without the aid of a dinosaur, though some of the Trojans' foes are hard to convince there isn't a prehistoric mammal prowling right along with him.

SPORTS SCRIBE PICKS WINNERS OF GRID GAMES

By HENRY McLEMORE
NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Owing to a plain, old-fashioned case of heartbreak, the scribe, professor, sage of the Catskills and our chief football forecaster, is unable to make this week's picks. Judging by his success (?) last week it's probably just as well.

With the professor unavailable we were forced to call upon his chief assistant, one Frank Prunk, a Syracuse boy, who gained national attention last year when he confirmed Harvey's theory of blood circulation by cutting a vacuum cleaner salesman's throat. The following picks were smuggled to us by a friend of Frank's who visited him in his present confinement last Saturday.

U. S. C. vs. California: The Trojans after a hard scrap.

Stanford vs. Washington: Stanford in a fight as close as next month's rent.

Oregon vs. U. C. L. A.: Oregon. Washington State vs. Oregon state: Washington state after a lulu of a fight.

St. Mary's vs. Nevada: The former in a walk.

N. Y. U. vs. Georgia: The Georgians gain partial revenge for Sherman.

Tulane vs. Auburn: Tulane takes it.

Florida vs. Tennessee: Tennessee comes back.

Georgia Tech vs. North Carolina: The engineers.

Yale vs. Army—Army, but the soldiers will have to step.

Fordham vs. Alabama: 'Bama on a hunch.

Columbia vs. Penn State: Columbia.

Pennsylvania vs. Navy: The sailors sink 'em.

Harvard vs. Dartmouth: Harvard wins one.

Princeton vs. W. and L.; the latter catches 'ell.

Brown vs. Holy Cross: Too close. A tie.

Colgate vs. Lafayette. Colgate.

Carnegie Tech. vs. W. and J. Carnegie Tech.

Denver U. vs. Colorado College: Denver.

Montana State vs. Montana Mines: Montana State.

Minnesota vs. Iowa: Iowa loses its first battle.

Michigan vs. Chicago: Michigan remains undefeated.

Northwestern vs. Ohio State: Northwestern in a close one.

Purdue vs. Wisconsin: Purdue has too much power.

Notre Dame vs. Pittsburgh: The Irish get sore and avenge last year's trimming.

Michigan State vs. Syracuse: Michigan State.

TWINS AID SYRACUSE
Syracuse has a couple of twin football stars who are outstanding in the line this year. They are Walt and Milt Singer, who play end and center.

Four Football Games On Air Tomorrow

Four important football games will be broadcast by radio stations tomorrow, beginning at 10:45 a. m. Football broadcasts Saturday are scheduled as follows: 10:45 a. m., KHJ—Army-Yale; 1:45 p. m., over KGER—Stanford-Washington; 2:15 p. m., KFI—U. C. L. A.-Oregon; 2:15 p. m., KHJ—U. S. C.-California.

HAMMOND WILL SEEK OKAY FOR GAME AT NIGHT

D. K. Hammond, principal of the high school, announced today that he would ask permission of the school board for an experimental night football game to be played with Tustin Friday, November 10.

He said that Bill Cole, Tustin coach, had asked for the game, feeling that this was their year to beat Santa Ana. The Tustin team has met the supposedly strongest teams in their league without being beaten or tied. Indications are that they will win in their league, it was said.

Hammond said that he would ask for the night game because of the proximity of the two towns, thereby making a night game possible without working a hardship on either team or fans.

The game, if granted, will begin at 7 o'clock to enable the players to finish early.

U. C. L. A. CAPTAIN PUT ON SIDELINES

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—(UP)—A staggering blow was dealt U. C. L. A. football hopes today when Capt. Lee Coats, brilliant center, was relegated definitely to the sidelines for an indefinite stay.

Nursing a crippled foot, Coats will have no condition to play against the conference-leading University of Oregon team tomorrow, Dr. George O. Berg, team physician, announced.

GARDEN GROVE

GARDEN GROVE, Oct. 27.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Orland Smith had as their guests at their foot at Lake Arrowhead recently, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Schauer and children, Margaret and Bob, and Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Keele and son, Richard, and daughter, Ruth.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Schneider attended a dinner given recently for a group of old time friends at the home of Mrs. Marie Jacques in Santa Ana.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dukes and family have moved to Buena Park, where Mr. Dukes has accepted a position as maintenance foreman of the Buena Park section of the State Highway system.

FULLERTON "B" TEAM DEFEATS SAINTS, 20-7

FULLERTON, Oct. 27.—Scoring on quick, brilliant thrusts after capitalizing on opposition fumbles, James Roy (Jimmie) Smith's Fullerton Union High School Indians defeated Clyde Cook's Santa Ana Bees, 20 to 7, here yesterday.

Three times the Indians took advantage of Santa Ana fumbles to score as many times in the second period of a hard contested game between Orange county's greatest prep rivals.

During the first half the Indians smothered the Saints' running attack, marching 42 yards to score after a Santa Ana fumble and a 22-yard punt gave them possession.

Wesley Kewish scored from the three-yard line on the first play in the second period. Ray Bantel's boot was wide.

With Messerve fumbling after returning the subsequent kickoff 15-yards and Kewish recovering, a 32-yard pass from Captain Jerry Oswald to Norman Christensen scored again. Oswald bucked over tackle for the extra point.

A bad pass from center cost the Saints 22 yards, placing the ball on their 10-yard line. Robert Hitchcock blocked Hammill's punt with Harry Maxwell recovering on the two-yard stripe, from where Oswald scored. Christensen converted on a power play.

Taking advantage on an exchange of punts, the Saints returned to score on a 23-yard pass from Quarterback Hammill. Messley, who eluded a host of would-be tacklers and raced to the Saints' lone tally in the third period. Fullback Messerve cracked center for the extra point.

Though the score indicated a one-sided battle, statistics revealed an evenly waged, hard-fought battle. Fullerton made six first downs to the lovers' five.

The Indians gained 91 yards from scrimmage, as against Santa Ana's 71; the Saints, however, earned 64 yards through an aerial raid and the victors 42. The combined yardage from passing and running favors the winners 125 to 133.

The Fullerton forward wall demonstrated considerable resistance against the county seat eleven, often breaking through to throw visiting backs for losses.

UNABLE TO STOP DOPING OF HORSES

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(INS)—The all-powerful Jockey club which rules the destiny of the turf, today confessed itself unable to stop either sponging or doping of race horses at metropolitan or any other tracks.

True, the Jockey club has offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of a sponger but this is but a pitiful gesture for nobody but an insider is very likely to know a sponger and he's not likely to risk his health for a mere $500, especially when he could get more from the sponging outfit to keep his mouth shut.

The only suggestion the Jockey club has to offer for protection of horses, horse owners and the ever gullible public is for every individual track to hire more policemen.

BIG TEN GRID RACE REACHES HALFWAY MARK

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—(UP)—The Big Ten football race reaches the halfway mark tomorrow with Michigan, the favorite, and Iowa, the darkhorse, attempting to draw away from the field.

Iowa's conference leadership will be challenged by Minnesota in the day's most important Big Ten battle at Minneapolis.

Michigan will attempt to win its 14th straight game and hold its place among the leaders by chastising the young Chicago team at Stagg field.

Purdue, still entertaining title hopes despite its tie with Minnesota, will be after its second conference victory in a homecoming battle against Wisconsin, twice beaten, at Madison.

Northwestern and Ohio State, each beaten once, will battle at Columbus in a game that will relegate one or the other of the second division teams to a tie.

Two interconference games in this territory will see Notre Dame and Pittsburgh, both beaten last week, meeting at South Bend, and Michigan State engaging Syracuse at Lansing.

The other two Big Ten teams, Illinois and Indiana, are idle, having opened the season a week early in September.

Victories over Northwestern and Wisconsin have started championship talk in Iowa City, and 2500 supporters, the biggest group to attend an out of town game in years, will be solidly behind Iowa in their Minnesota invasion.

Minnesota's 7-7 tie with Purdue, in which the Gophers outplayed the boiler-makers, and 7-3 victory over Pittsburgh, regarded as one of the strongest eastern teams, established Coach Bernie Bierman's team as the favorite.

Michigan's stout defense should halt Chicago's attack and enable the Wolverines to coast to a comparatively easy win by a small score, just enough to be comfortable.

Wisconsin has been tough for Purdue for years. The Northwestern-Ohio State game looks like an even battle.

Notre Dame is still in the fog after the Carnegie Tech defeat, and Pitt is a slight favorite. It is well to remember, however, that Notre Dame has lost only two games in South Bend in 30 years—to Carnegie Tech in 1928 and Southern California in 1931.

SUBS TRAINED FOR 'IRONMAN' ELEVEN

CORVALLIS, Ore., Oct. 27.—(INS)—Lon Stiner, coach of the Oregon State college football battalion, trained his big guns on reserves here today. There will be no lack of well trained substitutes if his "ironman" eleven needs help against the Washington State Cougars Saturday afternoon.

Stiner worked over his reserves late last night in heavy scrimmaging while the first string trimmed up their passing, punting and defensive work.

"There is no reason why I should make substitutions while the eleven on the field is working smoothly," Stiner declared. "But you can never tell when a substitution will be necessary. We may have to use a lot of substitutes against the Cougars. An injury is liable to top up at any minute and capable subs must be ready."

RATE SANTA ANA UNDERDOG IN IMPORTANT FOOTBALL TILT AT POLY FIELD; BOTH UNDEFEATED

On the prowl for its fourth successive championship, Riverside Bengal springs at Santa Ana Don here tomorrow afternoon in an all-important football drama of Poly field.

From the first blast of the whistle at 2:15 until the final gun, two undefeated football clubs will be struggling for all their worth to gain an edge in a spirited race for the Eastern conference title.

Outweighed 22 pounds per man in the line, Coach Bill Cook's daring Dons naturally assume the role of the underdog against their highly-touted foe. Comparative records, however, point out that an upset is possible:

Santa Ana looks as good as Riverside in everything but weight. The Dons are blessed with plenty of backfield speed and trickery, but they will be at a great disadvantage unless their comparatively light forwards can match strength with Riverside's bone-crushing 200-pounders.

With the exception of Tackle "Bono" Koral, their aggressive captain, the Dons are free from serious injuries, and well prepared for the respected visitors.

Koral, slowly recovering from an infected left leg and other body injuries, undoubtedly will be kept on the bench, Coach Cook stated today, announcing that Miles Norton, 188 pounds of dynamite, and Walt Devine, scrappy red-head, will fill left and right tackle, respectively.

Other changes send Sammy Tucker, former Saint quarterback, to running guard instead of Loren Lukens, and Bruce Handy to center in place of Ray Hoar. Well satisfied with the work of Lukens, Cook is not demoting the former Anaheim star, but merely benching him until the alert Tucker is transferred to left halfback.

Hoar has been favoring a charley-horse in past drills, and will give way to Handy, a better defensive player. Handy has not displayed the passing ability of Hoar, but he is improving and may develop into Santa Ana's outstanding pivot-man. He and Hoar rate on a par at the present time.

The Dons possess other backfield talent demanding a chance against Riverside, so none of the above starters will remain at their first positions more than a half.

Mitchell At Fullback
Bob Mitchell, who turned in some sweet line plunging against Pomona, will break into the lineup at fullback, the fleet Ray Hapes at quarter, Clair Preininger and Bob Phipps at outside half, with ends, will receive the opening call, along with Ray Nowotny, 207-pound standing guard, completing the lineup of Norton and Devine, tackles; Tucker, running guard; and Handy, center.

Santa Ana's new backfield, announced yesterday, will include "Porky" Bell, colored star, at quarterback; Harry McInteer and Wilburn Anderson, halves; and Harold Welty, full.

Huntington Beach Operators Urge Delay On Code

OBJECTIONS OF OIL MEN WIRED TO WASHINGTON

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Oct. 27.—The clause in the oil code adopted by the state legislature yesterday afternoon in the adjourned meeting of the oil operators at Memorial hall, just who put that clause in the oil code was as much a mystery as ever. Following the example of other operators in all Southern California fields, the operators voted to send a telegram to Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, asking that the supplemental code for California be suspended until after November 10.

The telegram also embodied objections of local operators voiced in their meeting last Monday, opposing the code. Neil Anderson, local chairman, presided at the meeting and Cecil M. Root, secretary, kept the minutes. Seth Heney proposed the sending of a telegram to Washington asking that the adoption of the code for this state be postponed until after November 10, in order that it might be further studied.

The telegram follows: "RESOLVED, that the producers of the Huntington Beach petition the oil administrator that the supplemental code for California petroleum production adopted October 20th, by the Central Committee of California oil producers be suspended until after November 10 to allow the Huntington Beach producers full opportunity to further examine said supplemental code and obtain adjustments if needed. If such suspension be denied then producers of Huntington Beach wish at this time to go unanimously on record as follows:

"First: We favor paragraph two, article eight, being interpreted as a clause of sufficient strength and certainty that the oil administrator in flagrant cases of violation of curtailment, shall completely stop such violations pending the term of appeal from his orders.

"Second: That the following clause, appearing in article one, page two, be entirely deleted from the code:

"The principle that subsurface ownerships as well as surface ownerships, have inalienable and inviolable rights of property must be recognized and furthered."

"Third: That we disapprove in its entirety article four, section C, paragraph three, page four, of the supplemental code covering the allocation of oil to undeveloped acreage.

"May we respectfully request a reply to this telegram."

After much discussion of the clause above subsurface rights, an explanation given by Robert M. Peas, Los Angeles attorney, to a group of friends in private, was repeated by D. R. White. According to this explanation, the clause refers to "cubical contents," or acreage basis of allocating oil, as against "capture method."

By acreage basis or cubical contents is meant that in a proven field the estimate of the quantity of oil is first determined. Then a well is allowed to produce just so much oil as the acreage of the lease would measure in cubical contents of the oil sand. When the well produces the acreage oil it is entitled to produce, then it could be shut in.

The "capture method" means that a well be allowed to produce oil as long as oil can be captured through that well. If a man had

ASSEMBLY HELD BY BREA GRADE PUPILS

BREA, Oct. 27.—Members of the student body of the Brea grammar school conducted a "pep" assembly Thursday afternoon, the main feature of which was a burlesque ball game staged by the older boys of the school, with Dick Crabb and Bobbie Hall as the yell leaders. Marston Blair, Fred Kruse, David McDonald and Bob Richey made up the rooting section and the umpire was Joe Blystone.

Boys dressed as girls made up the opposing teams, anticipating the game which was to follow between girls of the Brea and the Buena Park grammar schools. Those portraying the visiting team were Carl Senn, Merle Shore, Donald Voorhees, Floyd Carter and Lake Dustin, the latter the yell leader.

On the Brea team were Harold Nelson, captain; Othello Stewart, James Morton, Bobbie Marks, William Wayland, Leo Plantoni, Roger Hirth and Wesley Foster. Principal Vincent Jaster and Champ Nixon had charge of make-ups.

Brea won the game which later followed between the real teams, 14 to 13.

4000-BARREL WELL FLOWING IN HUNTINGTON BEACH FIELD; 5-ACRE TRACT TO BE DRILLED

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Oct. 27.—The W. K. company's well on Twenty-second street between Walnut and Olive is on production for 4000 barrels of oil and 6,000,000 cubic feet of gas. The oil cuts less than one-tenth of one per cent and the gravity is 25.7. It rivals any well in the field for the value of its production.

The well sets a new record in that it is finished below 5300 feet. Neighboring wells in that area are between 4700 and 4900 feet as a rule. If the W. K. well is in the same sand it indicates the thickness of the sand might be between 500 and 600 feet, oil men say.

The east extension of this sand is now proven to reach for more than half a mile as the "Babe" Allison well at Fourteenth and Ocean is good for better than 2500 barrels. The sand is found by the Tide Oil company at Twentieth and Olive to extend at least along the first tier of lots in the third block back from the ocean. When fully developed the Huntington Beach oil field should lead the state in potential production, oil operators claim.

P. A. Kingsland and S. S. Wold own the W. K. company, which now has its second well on the

Spends $1000 To Save Beach Home From Sea Current

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 27.—It has cost J. B. Clevidence, of Hollywood, $1000 within the past few days to have piling driven and other forms of protection thrown around his West Newport residence to keep it from slipping into the sea as a cross current in the shallow ground swells in the ocean opposite his place, keeps eating away into the beach.

The current has been washing away the sand for several days in the vicinity of Forty-first street. In some places having cut entirely through to Seashore drive. There is an unusually high tide at this season, which adds to the force of the waters. Three houses have been moved across the Pacific Electric tracks and the Coast highway. It is believed by some scientists that the recent earthquake affected the flow of the currents at this point. Almost exactly a year ago, however, a similar current cut into the beach at 60th street, threatening the home of Mr. Roamer, of Pasadena. It was stated by Newport Beach city employees.

It is expected that the city will place groins at this point to keep the current under control.

SAYS NEW TYPE OF CITIZENSHIP NEED OF TODAY

TUSTIN, Oct. 27.—With "The Three C's in Education" as his theme, Principal John W. Means, delivered an interesting address at Thursday's regular meeting of the high school cafeteria room, with approximately 45 members in attendance. Mrs. L. R. Stearns, president, presided.

"Many say culture, character and citizenship are more important than the three R's," declared the speaker. "People should be properly trained to use their leisure time. America is the most delinquent nation in the world. We need wholesome American-minded citizens and a culture that will take the chips off of our shoulders. Music is the best preventative of crime in all the world. The basis of all worth, while character is honesty. The attributes of agreeableness and of fair play count for much also. We need a new type of citizenship, one that will teach us to do our duty and that there is something better than individual greed."

Paul Colburn, teacher in the wood shop, exhibited numerous articles which his pupils had made, and gave a short talk regarding different kinds of wood displayed on a table.

Musical numbers on the program, which had been arranged by Mrs. J. L. Marshall, included a piano solo, "To Spring," by Evelyn Piety and two vocal selections, "Dina Lou" and "I Saw Esau," by a trio, composed of Nelson Rogers, Edward Teter and David Forney, with Charlotte Colby accompanying at the piano.

During the business session, the secretary's report was read by Mrs. E. D. King and the treasurer's report by Mrs. B. J. Reynolds, who stated that the recent benefit dinner and program netted $45.76 for the treasury. The proposed 1933-34 budget of $194.50, read by the treasurer, was unanimously accepted. Life membership in the P.-T. A. was explained by Mrs. Frank H. Greenwood, membership chairman.

Refreshments of wafers and tea were served by Mesdames Givier H. Baxter, E. W. Dahl and C. A. Day. The cafeteria room was decorated with large baskets of autumn flowers by Mrs. John Mennes, flower chairman.

EXPLANATION OF GAS TAX
ALLOCATION TO CITIES
GIVEN BY STATE ENGINEER

Full explanation of the existing allocation of the state gasoline tax in Orange county and an estimate of amounts to be received by the 13 county cities was given last night by S. V. Cortelyou, division engineer of the state highway department, at the monthly meeting of the Orange County League of Municipalities in Brea.

Cortelyou explained that payments would be made on a population basis, using the census of 1930. The money can be used to purchase rights of way, maintain present highways, improve roads and other necessary work. First expenditures must be made on streets designated as state highways and when these are brought up to a certain standard, permission can be secured to improve other streets, he said.

Orange county will receive about $47,851 the first year under estimates compiled by Cortelyou, using the proposed income from the gas tax. The figures announced by the state engineer are as follows: Anaheim, $6816.90; Brea, $1509.70; Fullerton, $6738.30; Huntington Beach, $2287.50; Laguna Beach, $1238.22; La Habra, $1409.26; Newport Beach, $1365; Orange, $5000.93; Placentia, $995.72; San Clemente, $413.54; Santa Ana, $18,799.64; Seal Beach, $716.72; Tustin, $574.12.

Cortelyou emphasized that where a city is equipped to do road work, full control of the construction will be left to the municipality. He also said that a surplus cooperative fund was available so that expenditures in excess of the amount allotted to the city could be authorized.

Mayor Frank Champion of Laguna Beach raised the question that in beach cities, where the population was taken in January during the dull season, the share of the gas tax was far below the amount necessary to keep up the highways. Cortelyou said that the population basis was the best means available and that individual adjustments would be made to avoid discrimination.

In a resolution to the California League of Municipalities, the county association went on record as heartily endorsing the attempt to secure a one-cent share of the three-cent tax, instead of the one-quarter cent allocation.

108 W. 4th — Santa AnaDELAY ON FARM
LOANS TARGET OF CRITICISM

Severely criticizing government heads of the Federal Land bank for delay in making loans in Orange county, and appealing to President Roosevelt, state senators, congressmen, and high officials in Washington for more generous loan policies, members of the Orange County League of Municipalities passed a resolution at the meeting last night in Brea.

F. E. Farnsworth, vice president of the Santa Ana First National bank and an authority on land loans, gave a comprehensive review of the situation and declared that discrimination was being shown against Southern California. He cited facts and figures showing that only four loans have been made in this county in the past few months while nearly $1,600,000 had been sought in applications.

"The cities of Orange, Los Angeles and Ventura counties must join together in seeking action on federal farm loans," Farnsworth said. "Local loans have not defaulted in recent years. Disputes over lowered water levels and seepage of salt water from the ocean have been settled satisfactorily and appraisers have been appointed for this district. Applications are being ignored while other sections of the state have already received generous loans. We should make every effort to contact officials in Washington and save our land from foreclosure."

Mayor Paul Witmer of Santa Ana, voiced a strenuous objection to the manner in which the loans are being handled and said that appraisers, whether intrusted to do so or not, are making appraisals far too low. He said that the highest loan was only $500 per acre.

Supervisor LeRoy Lyons, speaking later to further clarify the matter, pointed out that before the recent decision to expand the loans, only eight trained appraisers covered the four western states. When hundreds of new appraisers were appointed, it was necessary to train them thoroughly and this has slowed up the program considerably. He said that five per cent of each loan is set aside to guarantee loss to the government on defaultations and that the money cannot be loaned until bonds are sold by the government.

Councilman A. C. Hasenjaeger of Santa Ana ended the discussion by presenting a resolution, which was approved, calling for telegrams to be sent to Washington urging haste in making loans. The document read that Orange county was being penalized through reduction of loans and that more foreclosures would be caused unless action was secured. Secretary Albert Launer of Fullerton, was instructed to wire the resolution to President Roosevelt, Henry Morgenthau Jr., federal director of the farm loans, Senator McAdoo and other officials.

A copy will be taken to Riverside tonight for discussion by Riverside county officials and copies will be sent to Ventura and Los Angeles counties for adoption.

Court Notes

Petition for probate of the will of John F. Adams, former Santa Ana publisher, has been filed in superior court by his widow, Mrs. Sarah Adams, who was named executrix without bond. Under a will submitted with the petition, Adams left his entire estate, the value of which was not stated, to his widow.

ART, POETRY AND EXCEPTIONAL
TYPOGRAPHY COMBINE TO MAKE
"TRAVEL TREE" OUTSTANDING

A beauty and dignity compounded of remarkable reproductions of paintings by Evelyn Nunn Miller, brief but comprehensive descriptions by K. Ethel Hill, bits of gem-like verse by Beulah May, and the format given by the Santa Ana Junior College Fine Arts press, make the newest publication of the press, "Evelyn Nunn Miller's Travel Tree," one of the most interesting volumes yet issued by the local press.

The intriguing title of this book was suggested by Mrs. Miller by the famous "travel tree" in California, a species of palm whose flat leaves, springing fan-like from the sturdy bole, represent the different countries of the globe. Her own travels through distant lands and the paintings which have perpetuated their beauties, serve to make this rare and unusual volume.

During her girlhood days in Santa Ana, Mrs. Miller, the daughter of Mrs. M. A. Nunn, 802 North Ross street, attended the city schools, later becoming identified with the high school faculty after her graduation from Pomona college. She remained on the faculty as art director but left teaching to go to the Orient, studying and teaching for two years in Japan before continuing her travels through China, Egypt and the Holy Land, to Europe, most of whose countries she visited before returning to California.

Her status as a former member of the Santa Ana school faculty gives special significance to the book as a project of the Fine Arts press of the college and of Thomas E. Williams, director of printing.

The volume illustrates the thoughtfulness given by Williams to such projects for his students, and is artistic to a degree that bibliophiles have learned to expect from this organization. Its binding in gray and silver, the Ganson type used and the fine intralace paper make a fitting setting for the beauty of the reproductions which illustrate it so remarkably and exemplify Mrs. Miller's talents as an artist.

The leaves of this magic "Travel Tree" offer a lasting record of her travels with palette and brush. She begins with her "Memories of Japan," and the foreword by Mrs. Hill, the exquisite poem by Miss May, and a clever charcoal sketch by Mrs. Miller, serve as introduction to the choice of paintings reproduced. "Entrance to Nikko," "Imperial Moat in Cherry Time," "Tea Under the Wisteria" and "Fuji-yama."

"Recollections of China" follow, and in sequence are "From the Land of the Nile," "Inspiration From the Holy Land," "Glimpses of Europe," and then the Travel Tree leaves turn to our own land and on them, Mrs. Miller records scenes of grandeur and beauty in the golden southwest.

"Tour of the National Parks" serves to present Yosemite, Rainier, Crater Lake and Glacier National parks and the Grand Canyon. "Moods of the Desert" and "Climbing the High Sierras" add their variety and the reproductions end with "In and Around Los Angeles," a collection of five paintings that range from Echo Park within the Los Angeles city limits, to the hills, canyons and ocean cliffs of the surrounding Southland.

Each grouping has its introductory poem by Miss May, and each picture has its accompanying bit of word painting by Mrs. Hill. An idea of the beauty of the poetic gems from the flowing pen of Beulah May may be gained from the stanza that prefaces "Tour of the National Parks."

"For some may bide at home in peace, but I must wander far. Wherever Fortune leads me and take what she may send, With my wine a running brook, my cane light a star. The rugged earth my counselor and every wind a friend, Out upon the long road, the road that has no end."

Although the first edition came from the junior college press several weeks ago, the books have

Why Doctors Favor
a Liquid Laxative

A doctor will tell you that the careless choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation.

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be controlled. It forms no habit; you needn't take a "double dose" a day or two later.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the average person's bowels regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is little "convenience" in any cathartic which is taken so frequently, you must carry it with you, wherever you go!

Its very taste tells you Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is wholesome. A delightful taste, and delightful action. Safe for expectant mothers, and children. All druggists, ready for use, in big bottles. Member N. R. A.

PAPER RUMORS
M. O. D. MERGER
WITH EXCHANGE

An article appearing in a recent issue of the Produce News, a New York publication, hints that adoption of the proposed national citrus marketing agreement may possibly mean the merging of the Mutual Orange Distributors with the California Fruit Growers' exchange.

According to an article in the San Bernardino Sun, citrus interests in Redlands, headquarters of the M. O. D., were variously amused and startled when informed of the article in the Produce News.

Bruce McDaniel, general counsel for the M. O. D., and Dana King, former sales manager of the Exchange, are mentioned for the job of citrus co-ordinator for California.

Portions of the article are quoted as follows:

"Since the close of the hearing, Colonel McDaniel has been mentioned as the probable citrus co-ordinator for California. This has naturally given rise to packing house gossip to the effect that, with the proposed code in effect, the M. O. D. would possibly unite with the Exchange, making a single powerful co-operative controlling, it is estimated, about 80 per cent of the California orange tonnage."

"During the Washington preliminary hearings, according to gossip, Exchange officials were not so prominent in the development of the citrus code as was Colonel McDaniel, who had given much study to the problem and was generally accepted as the authority on such problems. Thus, it is thought, Mr. McDaniel will have the cordial support of the Exchange when the time comes for Secretary Wallace to name the California citrus co-ordinator."

"The name of Dana King, for many years sales manager of the Exchange and possibly the best equipped citrus marketing authority in California, is now being mentioned by many citrus growers as their choice for California citrus co-ordinator."

Sheridan appointed a committee of Mayor Murphine of San Clemente, Mayor Charles Mann of Anaheim, Mayor Herman Hillmer of Newport Beach, Councilman A. C. Hasenjaeger of Santa Ana and Secretary Launer to work out a set of by-laws. Present officers are Sheridan, president, Murphine, vice president and Launer, secretary.

President Leo Sheridan made the suggestion that permanent regulations be drafted for the association. He pointed out that the group had completed a highly successful first year and would elect new officers at the next meeting to conform with state requirements. Secretary Albert Launer summarized

MEXICAN PRESIDENT SENDS PERSONAL INVITATION FOR
VISIT TO ORANGE COUNTIANS

An official forerunner of the warm government welcome awaiting Orange county citizens in Mexico next fortnight reached Santa Ana today with the receipt by J. F. Burke of a personal letter from President Abelardo L. Rodriguez of Mexico embodying a direct invitation to the residents of this county to share the President's hospitality while in Mexico.

The pilgrimage to which President Rodriguez referred will be launched a week from tomorrow, when Orange county citizens will join those of San Diego county and other Southern California sections in the 18-day cruise to be made in part on the new United Fruit liner, "Talamancas."

President Rodriguez expressed his personal pleasure in the enterprise and his confidence in the value of the undertaking in the eloquent language of his own country, declaring it to be his belief that "a greater knowledge of existing conditions in Mexico will be advantageous both to the United States and to my country." The communication bore the president's personal letterhead as well as the seal of the Estado Unidos Mexicanos.

The hospitality of the Mexican nation, warmly established for Orange county folk on previous expeditions, will be climaxed this year with the promised presidential reception. The latter will be a gala highlight in a series of anticipated official entertainments, invitations for which have been so generous that some have been to be regretted in order that full time may be allowed the Southern California visitors to enjoy Mexico's treasures at their leisure, it was learned.

Departing November 4, the Orange county travelers, who will be members of the first party from this section to approach Mexico by water, will disembark at Manzanillo, traveling by private train via Guadalajara to Mexico City, where a full week's stay will be enjoyed with headquarters at the Hotel Geneva. Visits to such storied spots as Cuernavaca, rich in associations of Cortez, Morro and Lindbergh; to the floating gardens of Xochimilco; to Puebla and her aced pyramids; to Guadalupe, to the quaint Taxco, and, in Mexico City, to the second most beautiful street in the world, to a bull fight in the capital's arena, and to the presidential palace and government buildings, will precede the final drive in a caravan of private motors over the spectacular mountain pass to the bay of Acapulco. There the Southern Californians will conclude the land portion of their journey, re-embarcating on the "Talamancas" for the three and one-half day sail north.

Registration for the cruise was expected to be closed momentarily as a result of a last minute flurry of application for the remaining membership in the party now being

Enjoyable Bridge Tea Is Compliment to Newcomer

Recent return to this city of Kinsley Hancock and his bride, gave his Santa Ana friends their first opportunity to meet the charming New Orleans girl to whom he was wedded less than a year ago. Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Albert Harvey, 311 Lowell street, assembled a group of girls and young matrons in her home to meet Mrs. Hancock and enjoy a round of bridge.

Guests found the home very extensive of the season, with its quaint Halloween appointments, its yellow flowers and innumerable black candles flickering from small pumpkin holders. Bridge scores were tallied on cards in keeping with the prevailing theme, and revealed at the close of play, Mrs. Karl Loerch as high, Miss Lolita Mead second high, and Mrs. Lloyd Shearer, low. Prizes were wrapped in orange and tied with black ribbons to conform to the decorative scheme.

Bridge tables and their appointments were cleared away, and the tea menu was served buffet style, with Mrs. John A. Harvey presiding at the charmingly appointed table. Shades were drawn so that the flaming candles had added value, and a delightful interval ensued.

Mrs. Harvey entertained in addition to her honor guest, Mrs. Hancock, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. John A. Harvey, Mrs. Harold Dale, Mrs. Leland Finley, Mrs. Russell Wilson, Miss Nan Mead, Miss Lolita Mead, Mrs. Stanley Anderson, Mrs. Karl Loerch Jr., Mrs. Burt Frederick Zaiser, Mrs. Lloyd Shearer, Mrs. Gall Jordan, Mrs. James Walker, Miss Mary Safley, Mrs. Robert Wade, Miss Eleanor Crookshank, Miss Boyd Joplin and Mrs. Edmund C. West.

Birthday Honors Paid Mrs. Lyman Gittins At Dinner Party

The occasion of the birthday anniversary Wednesday of Mrs. Lyman Gittins was marked by a delightful dinner given that evening in her honor by her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Sherman, in the Gittins home at 1549 Wilshire street.

Pretty carnations centered the table for the three course dinner while quantities of chrysanthemums were about the home for the social evening which followed.

Sharing in the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Gittins and daughter, Miss Lorna Gittins; Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Rich, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ladiges and Mr. and Mrs. Sherman.

Twenty-First Birthday Is Celebrated With Dinner Party

Attainment of his majority was made an especially pleasant occasion for Harry Bradley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar M. Bradley, when he was complimented Wednesday night at a birthday dinner given by his parents in the family home, 902 Cypress street.

Mrs. Bradley, assisted by her daughter, Miss Ruth Bradley, had arranged brilliant autumn flowers throughout the home, reserving those in Halloween shades to adorn the dinner table where they glowed in the radiance of black and orange candles. Place cards were unique, each bearing a silhouette photograph of the birthday celebrant.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley had as their dinner guests, the Misses Helen Bruns, of Anaheim; Marguerite Peers of Orange, Beatrice Binford of Riverside, Helen Marcell, Emma Fowler, Demaris Sears, Helen Harper and Ruth Bradley, Messrs. Harry Bradley, birthday celebrant; Kenneth Lamb, Herbert Meyers, Oscar Patmore, Richard, Ralph and Edgar Bradley Jr.

It was not until the serving of the dessert course that the young people learned of the special party incentive, and then the guest of honor had the pleasure of cutting a candied birthday cake and receiving the congratulations and good wishes of his friends.

Bridge, billiards and other amusements were enjoyed during the evening. The occasion also served as a farewell to two of the dinner guests, Miss Demaris Sears who is leaving Sunday for a visit to her parents in Modesto, and Herbert Meyers who is going to Oregon for an extended stay. Each had received surprise farewell gifts as a feature of the dinner hour.

Outdoor Dinner Marks Couple's Wedding Anniversary

Colorfully lighted, gardens of the E. E. Ulrich home at Lemon Heights served as a pretty setting Wednesday night for a dinner party in observance of the twenty-third wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ulrich.

Reminiscent of the autumnal theme observed at the wedding ceremony 23 years ago in Portland, Ore., were decorations at Wednesday night's affair. A long table appointed with flowers had been placed near growing chrysanthemums and red-berried shrubs.

Guests brought steaks to be prepared on the outdoor grill and the hosts provided biscuits, jelly and a dessert course of ice cream and cake for the dinner. The assembled group presented Mr. and Mrs. Ulrich with a silver cake fork.

The remainder of the evening was spent indoors, where games and music were enjoyed.

Those present were Dr. and Mrs. George A. Warner, Messrs. and Mesdames Sam Vogt, George Fairies and daughter, Mary, Warren Freeman, Harry Theil, Fred Schewitzer, Richard Matthews, Bert Rutter, Charles Blackburn and Mr. and Mrs. Ulrich, with their daughters and sons, Florence, Harriet, Kenneth and Wesley Ulrich.

Mothers' Club

Working on quilt tops and finishing layettes ready for welfare distribution, American Legion Auxiliary Mothers' club met in all-day session Monday with Mrs. Mabel F. Leach, 2180 North Broadway.

In serving a noon-day covered-dish luncheon at three large tables, Mrs. Leach had the assistance of Mesdames Ruth Jellis and Fay Minnix, auxiliary members, and a guest, Mrs. Mary Sue Faught. A business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. Elma McKay.

Mothers' club members present were Mesdames Elma McKay, Hattie Stowe, Cora Adams, Fannie Reeves, Margaret Hill, Stanzee Penn, Anna Gale, Alma Croft, Mary Crisman, Fanny Rose, Iona Sharp, Edith Getty, Susie Lamb, Dora Sweeney, Anabel Young, Alma Kellogg, Mabel F. Leach. Guests were Mesdames Jellis and Minnix and Miss Gladys Young, of the Auxiliary, and Mrs. Faught. Mrs. Edna Eklund, auxiliary president, was present for a short time during the afternoon.

The November meeting of the club will be held with Mrs. Cora Adams, 410 South Sycamore street.

Club Social Section Meets For Bridge And Games

Mrs. R. G. Carman, opening her home at 1815 North Ross street to the social section of Santa Ana Women's club Wednesday afternoon, made it very attractive indeed with many bright-hued chrysanthemums. She was joined in expressing cordial welcome to the guests, by Mrs. C. C. Oakes, Mrs. A. E. Green and Mrs. Harriet Lane-co-hostesses.

Tables were in readiness for the afternoon's games, the majority of the guests selecting Halloween score cards for bridge, although several preferred anagrams. Mrs. E. M. Waycott and Mrs. J. E. Livesey made the two high scores in bridge while Mrs. Nannie Myers scored in anagrams. At the same time they were awarded prizes, an equally attractive guest prize went to Mrs. M. E. Geeting for high bridge score. She and Mrs. J. McMahon were special guests of the section.

There were 29 present to enjoy the party plans of the four hostesses, who completed their friendly hospitality by spreading card tables with fresh linens, centering each with a gay cluster of flowers, and serving a dainty refreshment course.

First Faculty Party Given As Surprise Housewarming

Making their first party of the school year the occasion for a housewarming and surprise shower for Mr. and Mrs. Horace Scott, 2208 North Ross street, members of the faculty of Frances Willard Junior High school took part in a recent merry affair.

The evening was devoted to a variety of games and contests. Refreshments in keeping with a Halloween theme were served by the social committee, Robert G. Horn, Arnold T. Lund, W. H. Bracewell and Norman C. Hicks. Mr. and Mrs. Scott were hosts.

Taking part in the affair, other than Mr. and Mrs. Scott were Mrs. Mabel Blee, W. H. Bracewell, Miss Bertha Briney, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Budd, Miss Esther Jean Davis, Walter A. Egg, Robert S. Junior Music Club

The happiest kind of a Halloween party was enjoyed Friday afternoon by Junior Music club members at their semi-monthly meeting with Marie Stanton Eyerly, 501 South Van Ness avenue.

There was the usual business meeting of which Ruth Hawley had charge, followed by a musical program. To this Richard and Stewart Gibson contributed a piano duet, and Donna Baker and Ralph Tiffin gave piano solos, while Ralph also demonstrated scale playing.

Mrs. Eyerly gave a little talk on expression in music, after which the club members joined in a musical word building game in which Donna Baker scored high. Other Halloween games were enjoyed, after which Mrs. Eyerly played a lively march to which the young people proceeded to the dining room. Individual pumpkin pies topped with whipped cream were served with hot chocolate and candy, and at each place were caps, whistles and quaint Halloween favors.

Julia Lathrop

Book Week Projects
National Book Week marks an important time in the Lathrop schedule of events. Some particular motif is elaborately carried out every year in celebration of the Book Week occasion. This year the motto is "Growing Up With Books" and all the English classes are planning definite programs to carry out this idea.

A prize is being offered to the home room of the student making the most interesting book cover for a contest being conducted by Miss Leona Calkins, librarian. Several interesting and original covers are already on display and the majority of the students are working out their plans for book covers to enter the contest. Many are taking advantage of this project to make Christmas gifts which will be both artistic and useful.

The Literary club has held several special meetings but members have not revealed the particular activity they are planning for Book Week. However, it is safe to believe that Lathrop students hold an unusual record in reading a wide range of books. Their standard of reading is above the average junior high school. This record no doubt is encouraged by the unusual library facilities claimed by Lathrop school. Being a branch of the public library, a much wider range of literature is available for student use.

Miss Mildred Tummond, art director, is giving considerable time to directing the making of book covers. In many classes each student has expressed a desire to make at least one cover, and many are making several. Already many original ideas have materialized.

Classes Visit Market

Last week one of the Main street meat markets welcomed the 19 foods classes, conducted by Mrs. Ethel Sinko, to the market to learn directly about the various cuts of meats. The girls took notes on the different kinds of meats, the prices, and many other interesting and valuable facts about purchasing meat.

Following the demonstration, the girls returned to their classroom and wrote about the experience.

Home Room Activities

The sixth meeting of Miss Lota Blythe's class, "The Vikings" was held during the home room period on Wednesday. They were called together by the president, Mary Drysdale who presided over the program.

Margaret Rice explained the class badges and members are looking forward to wearing them. Clossa Burks sang "The Last Round Up" and "A Gift From Me to You." Jimmy Zornes accompanied the class while Clossa Burks and Fred McQueen led in old time songs. The class expressed regret that Jimmy Zornes, who had become such a valuable member, is leaving Lathrop soon.

Work Shop Group

Another low 7 home room, Miss Elfreda Blegen's class, has decided to call its Wednesday meetings "The Work Shop" and work on various articles useful for the Book Week contest and which can later be used for Christmas gifts. Many have started interesting covers for library books, telephone and recipe books. The students have suggested many interesting articles that can be made with little or no expense and will be useful and interesting gifts. Geraldine Loy, class president, presides during the home room meetings.

Frances Willard

Assembly Program

The main feature of the Friday assembly at Frances Willard school was an interesting one-act play, "The Ghost Hunters," presented by the Willard drama class, under the direction of Miss Ruth Langley. Set in the living room of a supposedly haunted house, the play worked up to exciting points. Patricia Jordan played the part of "Madge," Ina Lowe, "Bunny"; Richard Wright, "Bob"; George Miller, "Homer"; Bruce Buell, "Tim Hennessey," and Joe Kadowaki, "Jimmie Dayle." Harold Faccou, Harold Tucker, and Gayle Miller had charge of the lighting effects and scenery, while Leon Kaplan had charge of the sound effects.

John Henderson, chairman of the Fire Prevention committee of the Chamber of Commerce, presented Willard with the cup for the second year. He said, "If Willard wins the cup one more year it is hers to keep. John Garthe and 'Rosy' Merrill also gave brief talks.

The H8-Trio, Lorraine Sweet, Milton Smith, and Harry Adams, sang "Neopolitan Nights" and "Under a Blanket of Blue." Larry Wicks, who lived in Hawaii five years, talked on sports, products, schools, people, and language of the islands.

La Verne Tate and William Talevich of the H8 class played and sang two enjoyable numbers "A Home on the Range" and "Red River Valley." Concluding the program Audrey Barnes played a piano solo "Au Matin" by Benjamin Godard.

Stamp Club

A meeting of the Willard Stamp club was held Wednesday in room 215. There were 10 members present. A suggestion was made that the members correspond with foreign children. Russell Robinson read a letter he received from a Hungarian boy.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

BY VERA RAMSEY

The works of H. G. Wells are generally brilliant but disquieting.

His new book "Shape of Things to Come" is no exception. In it he gives us a short history of a half-a-century of the future. Mr. Wells calls it a "speculative spree"; it is far more than that. It is the amazing and prophetic of an acute and observant man who has watched the course of world events over almost half a century; of a mind which is not afraid to look ahead, which faces the chaos of the present and the disaster of the near future—which Wells believes to be unavoidable—and out of the wreck builds an imaginary world state of amazing proportions and wise policy.

The first section reviews the course of events in a novel and persuasive way as they may be viewed by the historian of the future—the breakdown of contemporary civilization, through which Wells believes we are now passing. The second section carries the story to 1960 and describes the Sino-Japanese war, the war between the United States and Japan, the Polish war, and the horrible consequences of all these in the "Famished Fifties" next he tells of the emergence of the modern state—the first steps in world reorganization and the opposition which they encounter ending with the establishment of a world state in 1978. From this he goes on to the policies of the world state, the importance of dictatorship and finally the rise of the educational control, working along sociological and psychological lines in an effort to remake the new society and transform the physical conditions of living.

H. G. Wells has never set down his ideas more brilliantly, with more caustic humor, more wisdom, more sympathy for man's blundering progress, and more horror at his colossal mistakes.

"As We Were" by C. F. Benson, was one of the most charming and popular books of its year. His new volume "As We Are" bids fair to rival it. As a successor to the earlier work, the new book is a pageant of contemporary society and letters.

"The war," says Mr. Benson, "split time in two." Partially under the guise of fiction, partially as a narrative of fact, he shows the two periods. He describes English life of the times of the great landed estates with their leisure, their sense of social responsibility, their ideals. This is contrasted with the occurrence since the collapse of the great landed estates of England owing to ruinous taxation and the unwillingness of the inheritors of the old traditions to carry them on. Perhaps the most important section of "As We Are" deals with the bitter disillusionment of the younger generation which sacrificed the splendors of early manhood to redeem the ineptitude of their elders which caused the war.

The author writes with his usual engagingly informal style tinged with unobtrusive but telling satires. The volume completes the very penetrating reminiscences of a man who sees events keenly.

"Watching the World Go By" by Willis J. Abbot is the reminiscences of a veteran journalist. He began his newspaper career in New Orleans in 1884 and is now a member of the editorial board of the Christian Science Monitor. It provides a panorama of American politics and journalism covering a half century.

As a boy Willis Abbot served as a page at the Republican national convention. This was the first of 20 political conventions he has attended. He started his newspaper career as a cub reporter on the "New Orleans Times-Picayune." Since that time, Mr. Abbot has been successively reporter on the New York Tribune, owner of an Illinois newspaper in Kansas City, editor of the Chicago Times and editorial writer of the New York Journal under Hearst. Statesmen and politicians, editors and authors, cranks and idealists pass in review. We have Mr. Abbot's opinion of Bryan, of Hearst, of Henry George, his defense of the much maligned Governor Altgeld of Illinois, and his story of the Roosevelt-Taft break. These are merely some of the high lights of a volume which reveals a long memory, a mellow wisdom, a quick and sparkling style.

Other new books in the library are: Beals, Carleton — The Crime of Cuba. Brittain, Vera — Testament of Youth. Chapman, Charles Edward — Colonial Hispanic America. Cunliffe, J. W. — English Literature in the Twentieth Century. Daglish, Eric Fitch — The Dog Owner's Guide. Haddo, S. C. — Manners for Millions. Hoover, Calvin B. — Germany Enters the Third Reich. Langsam, Walter C. — The World Since 1914. Masfield, John — End and Beginning. Moats, Leone B. — Thunder in Their Veins. Moody, John — The Long Road Home. Nüniger, H. H. — Our Stone-Pelted Planet. Robinson, Edwin — Arlington — Talifer. Schaeffer, Robert Haven — Hallowe'en. Waldman, Milton — England's Elizabeth.

"DON'T LIE TO ME, WOMAN!
YOU DIDN'T MAKE THIS CAKE!"

"OH, YES I DID, MR. SMARTY—
AND ANY TIME I WANT TO,
I CAN MAKE ANOTHER JUST AS GOOD. AUNT HARRIET TIPPED ME OFF TO SOMETHING!"

Now Janet, do be sure to use Calumet Baking Powder—and you'll never have any more sad stories to tell me about your baking. Calumet makes all the difference in the world in texture! The layers rise more evenly, too —on account of that Double-Action—one action in the mixing bowl and another in the oven.

Don't go putting in more Calumet than the recipe calls for! That small proportion is right for Calumet—it goes further, you see, than other baking powders.

CREAM LOAF CAKE—(2 eggs)

2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
2 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1-1/4 cups heavy cream
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Add sugar gradually to eggs, and beat well. Add flour, alternately with cream, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in greased pan, 8 x 8 x 2 inches, in moderate oven (350° F.) 50 minutes. Spread chocolate butter frosting on top and sides of cake.
(All measurements are level.)

I know you'll have marvelous luck with this cake—it's easy and it's delicious!

Love from

Aunt Harriet

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

The Tinymites were satisfied to open their fishing. Goldy cried, "Before we cook a fish meal we would dry wee Dotty's clothes." "She's soaking wet. So's Scouty," they are bound to catch a cold, but way. We'll build a great big fire and they'll dry quickly, goodness knows."

"All right," the fisherman replied, "There is a pile of wood beside my little hut. We'll hurry back. Come on, lads, follow me." In just a little while they had a blaze that made the soaked ones glad. It wasn't very long till they were dry as they could be.

Then Scouty cried, "Now let's prepare our fish meal. Gee, the oven stood right on the ground and all the Tinies gathered 'round while Windy built a nice hot fire. 'We're ready,' Copy cried."

The fisherman then said, "Hurry!" and put the stuffed fish on the tray that slid into the oven. "Gee, it looks good," Duncy sighed. "Get paper plates, and forks and knives. You'll have the meal of your young lives," exclaimed the friendly fisherman. "The fish soon will be done."

The two girls ran into the shack and very shortly came right back. "We have them," shouted Dotty. "There's enough for everyone."

(Dotty finds a monstrous pet in the next story.)

EAT AND GROW SLIM Luncheon

Salad Plate:
12 stalks canned asparagus.
1/4 head lettuce, shredded.
1 hard-boiled egg, diced.
2 tablespoons mineral oil mayonnaise.
1/4 disk Ry-krisp without butter or
2 thin slices toasted bran bread.

Clear tea, no sugar.

Calory total 185
If you are tiring of mineral oil mayonnaise you may switch to French dressing made with ordinary salad oil, just a little of it, but lots of lemon juice, minced parsley, minced onion tops, paprika, etc.

Let's have a rich gooey cake today, just for a change from the never ending watching of the calories. It's human nature to want to slop over every once in a while.

BLACKBERRY CAKE

4 eggs beaten with
2 cups white sugar
1 cup soft butter
1 cup blackberry jam or jelly
Whip the four ingredients together and add

3/4 cups flour sifted with
1/4 cup powdered chocolate
1 teaspoon each of cinnamon, allspice and cloves, and 1 cup buttermilk mixed with
1 rounded teaspoon soda
1 cup pecans
1 cup raisins.

Mix in the order given, bake in a tube cake pan about 50 minutes. Fast oven until the cake begins to rise, then cool it down and keep so during the baking of the cake.

This cake needs no frosting and is extra good at the end of a week.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Flaked Fish in Spanish Sauce (For Six)

3 cups flaked cooked fish.
2 cups tomato puree

1 large green pepper, diced
1 large onion, ground
1 stalk celery, ground
1 small bunch parsley
1/4 cup salad oil
Salt and pepper
1/4 teaspoon cayenne and
2 teaspoons paprika.

Run onion, celery, green pepper and parsley through the food grinder and let all simmer in the hot oil until the onion begins to soften. Add the tomato puree and seasonings and let the sauce simmer along for almost an hour, then add the flaked fish, cook rapidly for ten minutes, pour over hot buttered toast and serve. Boiled rice is the complement to this dish.

Of course you need not wait until you have left-over fish to make this dish. Canned salmon takes on added lustre, served in this fashion.

Let's have a trading party. I'll trade you a grand calory list (330 different kinds of food arranged in average helpings) for one of your favorite recipes and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to mail the list to you. I'm particularly in need of salad recipes this week.

THE SPORTS PAGE AS A MORAL FORCE

William Lyon Phelps, Professor of Literature at Yale University, in the current number of the Delinicator, suggests that the sports page of the newspaper is the most wholesome page in the daily paper. The front page, he says, deals with failures, suicides, crimes, and internal discords. The sports page deals with wholesome rivalries, buoyant hopes, and innumerable triumphs.

This is a novel discovery. We had never thought of it in just that way; but as we think the matter over we recognize there is much truth in the observation made by the learned professor. If our favorite team or athlete is defeated, we are sorry; but there is always the hope that tomorrow may tell a different story. Then there is the absence of all hate and bitterness between the hotly contending teams and athletes. Even the pugilist has a brotherly respect and often a real affection for the opponent whose face he is punching into a pulp. When he is knocked out in the brutal scrap, he does not hold any feeling of hatred toward the man who has conquered him. The highest compliment that can be paid to any man is to call him a "good sport." This means that he to whom it is applied always comes up smiling, never is unfair, and goes on doing his best.

It is said that the sportscaster on the radio has the largest following of listeners of any of the broadcasters. It is an evidence of the great number of people, young and old, who are interested in sports. A story is told of an aged minister who became blind. His son was in the habit of reading the news to him every morning. The son never dreamed that the pious old gentleman was interested in sports at all. One morning, after a professional prize fight, the son happened to remark that the heavy-weight champion had been knocked out. "Is that so?" said the pious old man, "read it to me round by round!" which reminds us of Mr. Dooley's essay on the Sullivan-Kilrain prize fight, written more than a generation ago. Dooley meets Father Kelley, the parish priest, the day after the fight. The good father was much disturbed about prize fighting, and was much humiliated by the fact that most of the prize fighters were Irish. But he could not conceal his interest. "By the way, Dooley," he asked, "how did it come out?"

All of which illustrates the large place sports have in the interests of men and women. And, as Professor Phelps notes, there is a reason for it. There is much that is wholesome about the conflicts and rivalries of the sporting world.

GROWER AND LABOR PITTED AGAINST EACH OTHER

Yesterday we discussed the question of the cotton pickers' strike and the amount they were receiving. The facts as to the earnings have been more completely verified by the information gathered today from the cotton district.

There is another phase of this matter that the readers should know, however, that came to us after the Register went to press yesterday. While increasing prices have come, it seems that the growers of cotton are not the beneficiaries of this increase, but as so often happens, the creditors of the farmers are.

There has been an impartial investigation of the conditions in the fields by seven ministers from Tulare, Visalia and Farmersville. This is in the heart of the cotton district. These represent the Episcopal, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Congregational, Baptist and Methodist Episcopal churches. In the report it said:

A part of the trouble arises from the fact that the farmers contracted for their cotton with the finance companies before the rise in price became effective. While the farmer faces increased costs, the finance companies getting the advantage of higher prices, the farmer and the cotton picker suffer.

They further, in discussing the killing of strikers at Pixley, called it an "inexcusable brutality, to be laid at the door of the small minority of hot-headed ranchers." It does look as though the profits in this cotton situation have been taken both from the grower and from the picker, and the grower and the picker are left to fight over such a small amount in returns on the crop that neither one can make a living out of the total amount, if the other received none. It is desperate necessity on each side. It is unfortunate that the extra quarter of a cent a pound for picking could not have been obtained from the finance companies as a concession, even though they had made the contract for the cotton.

A POSSIBLE KAISER IN A FORD SHOP

It may not be generally known that the second son of the one-time Crown Prince of Germany is working in the Ford plant in Detroit. It is being rumored in Germany that on the death of Hindenburg, the Hohenzollern dynasty would be restored to the throne in the person of this young man who has modestly taken his place in the industrial life of the United States.

An editorial writer of the Kansas City Star who spent some time in Germany recently has written a series of articles in his paper on conditions in Germany. These articles came to the attention of the young Hohenzollern, who immediately went to Kansas City to visit the writer who seemed to understand his Germany so well. He expressed the hope that the editorial writer would correspond with his royal grandfather in Holland, and acquaint him with some things he had learned.

Incidentally, we can see how the German people would warm up to a young man of that kind to be their ruler. His experience in a Ford shop would give him the "common touch" which royalty, because of its inevitable exclusiveness, could never get. The founder of the royal house of Sweden, Piere Bernadotte, who became King Charles XIV, was a French soldier who had been trained as a lawyer. He made a good king because of his knowledge of the common people. The young Hohenzollern prince working in Ford shop could approach his task, should fate call him to the throne, with all the advantages of a royal background as well as those of the common man who has mingled on the level with the common man.

Chancellor Hitler, with all his arrogance, would hardly welcome to the throne any one of the Hohenzollerns, or the Bavarian Wittelsbachs, or the scion of any other of the German princelings now so abundantly available, who did not have the common touch.

RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA IMMINENT

The editor of one of our influential journals of opinion remarked a week ago at a private dinner party that the form of Russian recognition had been on the President's table for a week past, and was liable to be signed any moment. This editor was speaking from inside information.

In the light of this we were not surprised at the interchange of letters between Mr. Roosevelt and the President of the Soviet Republic looking toward a restoration of diplomatic relations between the two countries. In spite of the resolution adopted by the American Federation of Labor at its last convention placing the Federation on record against recognition, President Green of the Federation comes out with a statement to the press that it will not be opposed by the Federation if Russia agrees to call off the propaganda of the Third International.

We knew that all opposition would crumble as soon as the President decided upon recognition. President Green's statement is evidence of that. We believe that the American Legion officials will follow suit. After all, as we pointed out recently, the Third International has ceased to function as a propaganda agency for the Soviet Republic. The Russian officials are seeking first of all the welfare of the 160,000,000 people within the confines of the Soviet Republic. That is enough to require their attention for the next two generations. By that time there may be a marked movement toward the right in Russia, and some slight move, at least, to the left in the United States and other countries of the world. The nations have a way of coming together into amicable relationships. That is the experience of history.

KNOXVILLE GAS COMPANY DOES WITHOUT GOVERNMENT LOAN

The President of the Cities Service Corporation is Henry L. Doherty. A subsidiary of this company is the Knoxville Gas Company of Knoxville, Tennessee. Sometime ago the Knoxville Gas Company applied to the Federal Trade Commission for the privilege of selling $500,000 in bonds.

Under the "Truth in Securities" act, the Federal Trade Commission requested the Knoxville Gas Company to tell the salary that Henry L. Doherty, the president of the Cities Service Corporation was receiving, and also how much other officials on its payroll were getting.

Did the Federal Trade commission learn what these salaries were? No, they did not. The Knoxville Gas Company simply and quietly withdrew its application for the sale of bonds. Probably these men whose salaries were asked, thought that it would be better for the company to get along without the sale of bonds than to have the public know what they were drawing.

It may be possible that they simply planned to take an aggregate amount out of the salaries equaling $500,000 and maybe as a present from these officials to the corporation to save the additional debt. It is unfortunate with a great many such companies, that this thing could not have been done years ago.

New Work For The Nation's Libraries

San Bernardino Sun
Between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 persons who did not use public libraries before have become book borrowers during the depression. This is a development which gratifies librarians while it creates a difficult problem for them. The same depression which has brought them millions of new patrons has cut their funds for books and salaries and has forced on them various makeshift economies. It may effect important changes in their future service.

For example, public libraries, especially in the industrial cities, are keeping very up-to-date on NRA codes, public works programs, business expansion and other phases of the rapidly shifting economic scene. They are prepared to share in the adult education movement, to provide business information and occupational advice to people seeking to advance in their own lines or step into something new.

It is estimated that astrologers and quack vocational guides receive from the public $125,000,000 a year for "advice" about jobs. Librarians would not attempt to read the future for any patron, but they would gladly set before him any available information which might help him make his future for himself. The libraries are fast becoming occupational advisers to the public as well as suppliers of literary entertainment.

Fight Race Track Evil

Pomona Progress-Bulletin
Federal Narcotic bureau officials are conducting a vigorous campaign to stamp out the practice of doping race horses, which has gained headway rapidly of late.

Recently John Hertz, well known millionaire racing enthusiast and the owner of some of the most famous horses of the country, told officials that he would "get out of the game if it isn't washed and ironed."

Concoctions of everything from heroin to nitroglycerine have been used, authorities state.

Federal authorities are considering the enactment of legislation which would require horses to be locked up in stalls under guard for an hour before each race. This would require considerable building activity at every race track in the country.

Prominent political leaders have told officials they will back to the limit efforts to curb the evil.

Harvest Moon

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

WHAT'S TO DO ABOUT IT?

I know by restricting my viands
I can ward off a number of ills,
And can save quite a bit
As at table I sit
On the butcher and bakery bills.
I eat far much more than I need to
And it fills me with boding disquiet
To think what I've lost
By the terrible cost
Of the food that I choose for my diet.
But no doctor I've found who was able to tell
How to eat what I like and keep perfectly well.

I know that by rising each morning
And throwing the dumbbells around
I can build up at length
My weak bodily strength
And be healthy and husky and sound.
I am subject to many disorders,
I lack a strong, husky physique.
I am shaky and frail
And anemic and pale.

And nervous and flabby and weak.
But I've not found a doctor who don't rudely say
That loafing has probably got me that way.

I know that by hard, grinding study
I can learn a lot more than I do,
And that more frequent looks
Into scholarly books
Would give me a notion or two.
I know I am shiftless and idle
When I ought to be able and wise,
And mentally soar
From the earth's lowly floor
To heights quite as high as the skies,
But as yet I have never found out how to shrink
And still gain the same prizes as people who work.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

TOWARDS STRIKELESS INDUSTRY

There are many employers who are discreetly damning the Roosevelt regime for its plaid and persistent backing of the right of labor to organize and to bargain collectively through representatives of its own choice. They feel that the present wave of strikes is directly due to this backing. They are right in assuming that the governmentally inspired growth of 1,300,000 members in the ranks of organized labor has given labor a consciousness of strength and an outlook for growing influence that are factors in the current strikes. But they are wrong when they interpret this effect of Section 7-A of the NIRA as more than temporary.

The labor section of the NIRA may make strikes temporarily unavoidable, but its purpose is to make strikes permanently unnecessary. The Roosevelt regime, if I interpret it aright, is heading towards a strikeless industry as its goal. And, as it walks towards this goal it seeks to maintain an even handed justice in its attitude towards organized employers and towards organized employees. Its policy respecting Trade Associations and its policy respecting Trade Unions are out from the same piece of cloth. It wants to see the forces on both sides of the industrial table adequately organized so that they can together responsibly attack the common problem of building an economic order marked by justice, stability and prosperity. And it sees government standing in the background ready to inspire, to coach, to meditate and do whatever may be necessary to insure the supremacy of the common interest of the nation over the conflicting interests of its groups. The NIRA—however faulty some of its details may be—has as its objective the bringing of plan and permanence into the economic enterprise of the United States. Plan and permanence could be brought into our economic life by the government's gobbling up the whole round of functions now in the hands of private enterprise. They could if we assume that government could command the requisite ability for planning and management. But the Roosevelt regime has not seen fit thus to communicate its policy. It has taken another tack. It has insisted that a planned economy is imperative. But it has declined to admit that planning and communism are interchangeable terms. It has dared bravely to believe that planning is possible under the American system of private capitalism and political liberty.

It has insisted, however, that the economic planning which is the price of our economic system must pay for survival can be achieved only through three elementary steps: (1) a thorough organization of employers, (2) a thorough organization of employees and (3) a larger role for government in economic enterprise as initiator, coach and mediator. With these three steps taken, real leadership can be made towards the substitution of industrial government for industrial warfare. Without them, we shall see strikes increase.

The far-sighted business man, industrialist and banker will help rather than hamper the full execution of Section 7-A of the NIRA.

LOST TALENTS

Somewhere, in a disused closet, or a dark corner of the attic, lie the discarded symbols of a lost talent. "It's too bad," if she had only continued with her music she could have been a fine musician but we couldn't get her to practice. I keep her violin in the closet in the hope that someday she will begin again, but I fear it is too late.

"Isn't it a shame that a boy of his talent doesn't use it? He could be an artist if he would settle down to it. All those sketches are his and Mr. Ely, the great landscape man said he had real talent. All of a sudden, almost, he seemed to lose interest. His things lay around the house until I gathered them up and put them in this box. It's too bad. I hate to look at that box, you know. Seems almost as if a fine artist was buried there."

Children have varied powers within them and they develop as the child grows. Some of these powers are short lived. As though the vein were rich but short. Some carry on for a longer time and gradually thin out to the vanishing point. Teachers and parents are often deceived by these phases of growth into believing that the child has a gift for some art or craft or profession. They are deeply grieved and inclined to blame the child when he ceases to display any interest in his accustomed pursuit and turns to something else.

There is no blame attached to the situation. The vein of power rose to the surface, was cultivated and contributed its share to the mental and physical growth of the child and went its way. It was not wasted. It left its traces in the thinking and in the behavior of the child and those traces will remain for the term of life.

It is better to allow all talents a full development. When a child feels the urge to draw or paint or carve or sing or dance, let him do it, to the full if that is possible. The talent may vanish and the memory, for the time, die but the memory and the quality it set in the child remain.

It does more than remain. It
